Thousands Rally To Support Of President's Appeal

MERCHANTS OF NATION HEED CALL

Pledge Cards Are Taken to White House in Truck Loads; Thousands Sign WIRES ARE JAMMED Response to President's Letter Overwhelming; No Check Made as Yet

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP)—Business men by the thousands rallied today to President Roosevelt's call for higher wages and more jobs. Postmen were in the midst of delivering letters and pledge cards to 5,000,000 heads of American concerns, explaining the National Recovery program and making easy their joining the president's battle against the depression.

There were not enough pledge cards to go around in some cities. Executives drafted agreements of their own, when they could not obtain printed forms immediately from the postoffices.

Wires to the White House and to the National Recovery headquarters were jammed with reports of progress of the campaign. Truck loads of mail pouches filled with signed pledge cards were en route to Washington.

Response to the president's letter was so overwhelming, said his lieutenants, that no accurate check of joiners in the campaign was available immediately.

Agreements Run Out In many cities the agreements were received too late for distribution yesterday. But every report coming into the National Recovery administration offices indicated a great mass of volunteers throughout the country. It was expected that distribution of the agreement forms would be completed in every city of the country by Saturday night.

It was learned, meanwhile, that the administration planned to follow up signature of the blanket agreements with a questionnaire which will show exactly how many men have been given employment and how much has been added to the payrolls.

It has been estimated that more than 5,000,000 workers may be re-employed before Labor day. Administration officials feel that a figure between 2,000,000 and 4,000,000 will prove more accurate.

The blue eagles and other insignia to show cooperation in the movement are being shipped to distribution centers as rapidly as possible. Soon they will appear in store windows—in every way that can be conceived by astute strategists.

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—Being a humanitarian isn't a profitable pastime at all, in the opinion of 3-year-old Duncan Black. The day was hot. On the floor stretched the family cat panting laboriously. Nearby stood the ice box. "Why not?" thought Duncan. An ice box containing roast chicken, cream and other delicacies for daddy's dinner wasn't exactly the place for a cat, Duncan agreed, as he gingerly rubbed the seat of his pants.

ANCIENT EGGS ARE HEAVED AT DAVID HUTTON

Evangelist's Husband Not Enthusiastically Received in Theater

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—(UP)—If the lusty baritone voice of David L. (Call-Me-Dave) Hutton, ever turns sour he still can fall back on an interesting career as an "African dodger." The 250-pound estranged husband of Almee Sempie McPherson, Hutton qualified for any carnival when he dodged five fast-thrown and very ripe eggs at his opening vaudeville appearance here. And any old time African dodger will testify that the job of dodging baseballs at three-for-a-nickel at the county fair is easy compared with ducking unexpected eggs on a theater stage.

Hutton, who came to fame when he married Sister Almee and then gained additional publicity by suing the famed evangelist for divorce while she was on the high seas reading his letters professing everlasting love, gave his dodging exhibition at a local theater last night.

Confident after a week's successful run in Long Beach, and immaculate in white flannels, blue coat, white shoes, and with a carnation in his lapel, he stepped into the spotlight and made a deep bow.

"I'm very happy to be back in the City of Angels," said the former choir singer. "You know, I married an angel."

Coming An Egg A stethoscope might have picked up the applause that followed this rally against his wife, but Hutton took another bow, straightened up, cleared his throat to sing, and then—

From row 1, seat 1, came an egg, propelled by an attractive young lady. Showing an agility almost unbelievable in one of his bulk, the crooner dodged it.

FARM RECOVERY LEADERS TO ADOPT NATIONALIST PROGRAM

ROOSEVELT TO LEAVE TONIGHT FOR HYDE PARK

Expects to Remain at His Birthplace Until After Labor Day

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP)—President Roosevelt packed unfinished business of state into a couple of portfolios today and prepared to depart at midnight for the pastoral seclusion of "Krum Elbow," his birthplace on the bluffs of the Hudson river at Hyde Park, N. Y.

With exception of a possible brief return to Washington for a few days to speed the administration of the National Recovery program, he planned to remain at his old home until after Labor day.

A special train will carry the president and his party to the little New York Central station at Hyde Park Village where automobiles will be waiting to convey them to his home and to official headquarters at Poughkeepsie, five miles away.

Although Mr. Roosevelt looks up on his trip as a vacation, his friends believed he would be kept at his desk almost daily by the pressure of work.

Advisers were of the opinion that "Krum Elbow" would be the scene of important conferences on both domestic and international affairs. They cited the invitation extended to Secretary of State and Mrs. Hull to spend the night at Hyde Park on their return from the London Economic conference.

Hull was expected to proceed to Hyde Park immediately upon disembarking in New York City in order to acquaint the president with developments growing out of the London parity.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who returned this week from a vacation in New England and Canada, will accompany the president to Hyde Park. Others in the party will be Col. Marvin H. McIntyre, White House secretary, newspapermen and members of the White House office staff.

INTERVENTION IN STRIKE IS SOUGHT

HOLLYWOOD, July 28.—(UP)—Federal intervention in the strike of motion picture technicians was sought today by representatives of the five unions which walked out last Saturday.

Failing to secure promises of arbitration from the producers, labor heads announced they would mark time until the film industry goes under the NRA code July 31.

Under terms of the code, accepted this week on behalf of the industry by Will H. Hays, federal arbitration of wage difficulties is provided, it was pointed out by Richard J. Green, vice-president of the International Alliance of Theatrical and Stage Employees. He said a federal arbitrator had been conferring with officials here.

PRODUCTION CREDIT BUREAU WILL OPEN

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP)—The farm credit administration soon will inaugurate the second phase of its drive to rid the farmer of his pressing debts. With the establishment of a production credit corporation at St. Louis, Mo. Similar offices then will be established at each of the federal land bank cities.

REDUCTION OF PENALTIES ON DELINQUENT TAXES IS TOLD BY COUNTY ASSESSOR

REDUCTION OF penalties and other provisions making it easier to redeem property sold for taxes are embodied in Senate Bill No. 93, a copy of which was received yesterday by County Auditor W. T. Lambert.

Lambert said that under the amended law, which became effective when signed by Gov. James Rolph Jr., July 22, interest at 7 per cent is charged from July 1, 1932, on all unpaid taxes prior to the current year, 1932-33.

The law, which was in effect from May 29 to July 22, imposed penalties of 1 per cent per month, without interest. Previous to that the rate was 10 per cent per annum. That was a net 17 per cent, so that the saving is 10 per cent over the law in effect prior to May 29.

CHICAGO OPENS DELEGATES TO FINISH FIGHT WORLD PARLEY ON GANGSTERS LEAVE LONDON

Officials Spurred by Indictment of 24 Accused of Racketeering

CHICAGO, July 28.—(UP)—Spurred by indictment of 24 persons accused of racketeering in Chicago, city and state officials pressed forward today in their finish fight against gangsters and gunmen.

At Springfield, Governor Horner summoned a crime conference. He planned to address the conference himself to explain how federal authorities will co-operate with state officials in their war on criminals.

Governor Horner spoke favorably of a verdict returned in Kansas City yesterday sentencing to death a man convicted of kidnapping Mary McElroy.

In Chicago, Chief Justice John Frydalski, of criminal court, revealed details of a plan for quick trials of criminals. He appealed to other judges to forego vacations and return to their benches for summer court sessions.

Judge Frydalski asked six judges to reopen their courts for trials of gunmen accused in the deaths (Continued on Page 2)

Planning To Dump Wheat Into Orient

Battle Shifts Following Failure of Agreement at London Meet

WASHINGTON, July 28.—(UP)—Roosevelt farm recovery leaders were embarked today on a thoroughly "nationalistic" program to turn farming into a profitable industry again.

They were ready to pursue this policy, if need be, to the point of "dumping" as much as possible of the wheat surplus in the Orient, according to those prominent in the program.

This shift in the farm recovery battle came simultaneously with announcement from London that the wheat growing nations had abandoned for the moment their conference seeking a worldwide wheat reduction program.

The conference was recessed until August 21, which will be too late for the administration to join in any reduction agreement on the 1934 crop. Before the conference meet again Secretary of Agriculture Wallace will have announced the amount by which American wheat farmers are expected to cut their 1934 production. They may be asked to reduce their average production for the past three years by 20 per cent, but probably the percentage will be much smaller.

The figure last considered by the London conference was 15 per cent. The figure Wallace will announce may be even less than that. A short crop now maturing and the possibility that some of the present surplus may be sold to China will serve to reduce the present huge carryover—the goal of the crop program.

Preparing the farmer for the national program, agents were carrying on an intensive campaign of the great wheat states to spread the gospel of co-operative action.

YOUNG ROOSEVELT COMING TO COAST

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 28.—(UP)—Elliott Roosevelt, son of the president, and his wife, the former Miss Ruth Goggins of Fort Worth, probably will leave here late today or tomorrow for Los Angeles. Mrs. David Goggins, sister-in-law of Mrs. Roosevelt, said today.

The couple is honeymooning in the spacious Goggins' home here with the telephone disconnected "at customer's request."

The Roosevelts probably will make their home in Los Angeles.

State's Red Balance Today Over Ten Million After Tax Laws Passed

SACRAMENTO, Calif., July 28.—(UP)—The state's red balance today was reduced to somewhere between $10,000,000 and $32,000,000—depending on how you compute tax yields—after legislators met the staggering unbalanced budget problem by passing two notoriously unpopular tax measures.

When the lawmakers convened July 17, they were faced with a staggering deficit aggregating around $125,000,000.

Ten days later, they emerged from inter-house deadlocks with a 2 1-2 per cent sales tax and a "high bracket" income tax. The former will probably raise around $100,000,000; the latter $11,000,000.

The legislature deliberately fell short of balancing the budget. First hand observation of how easily state departments can absorb money and spend surpluses, led to the conviction an "economy incentive" was required.

On the other hand, this failure to balance the budget may impel Governor Rolph to call a special session. Such is the opinion of Rolland Vandegrift, director of finance.

State officials—many legislative leaders, too—regretted the unexpected death of a bill providing urgently needed appropriations for four departments—social welfare department, $134,000; judicial council, $12,000; narcotics division, $70,000, and bureau of criminal identification, $37,000.

These appropriations were bundled into one bill and passed by the assembly. In the senate a flood of "pork barrel" rider appropriations loaded down the measure so much it was finally killed.

GOYARD BOYS QUIT GOVERNMENT CAMP

SACRAMENTO, July 28.—(UP)—Pining for the hum of the subway and the roar of the elevated, approximately 125 New York youths whom a benevolent government tried to care for in the great outdoors were hitchhiking back to the Bowery today. When the youths left the civilian conservation corps camp at Bear river, Yuba county, the action was the first wholesale desertion among C.C.C. camps of the west. Stragglers have gone A. W. O. L., however, in increasing numbers. It was charged here by relief heads who feared they would be expected to care for the deserters. Former desertions were minimized by army headquarters at the Presidio.

of bucking stock will participate in the shows.

Criticism Heard
While the program yesterday afternoon was adjudged satisfactory for an informal and opening show, with a Junior Rodeo, clown, exhibitions and other events presented, the pageant presented last night drew criticism from many who attended.

Failure of arc lights to function properly, and the long-drawn out presentation of awards to winners of the Queen contest by Gene Kahen, were subjected to criticism.

Mayor Witmer took little time in presenting Margaret Sawyer with a golden key to the city for winning the Queen contest, while the attendant ceremonies dragged. The Legion drum corps, sponsors of the contest, gave an exhibition drill that was well received. The Queen, with her court, occupied seats of honor during the pageant, which depicted the history of this section.

Highlights of the program last night were exhibition rides by Sam Garrett, world champion, and the famous Van Der Veen sisters in dangerous riding stunts. Other competitive events, with a round-up by the San Joaquin ranch, furnished entertainment for the night's program.

Junior Rodeo

The program yesterday afternoon included junior dog races, calf riding, an exhibition by Ed Stinson and his famous Belgian six-horse hitch, Buff Jones, of movie fame, in trick stunts, junior calf roping, numbers by Ted Collins and his Orange county band, numbers by the Southwest band, exhibition of rodeo stock, and an attempt by a cowboy to ride a Brahama bull. The cowboy was thrown and temporarily knocked out. Tex and his movie dog, Rex, performed difficult dog-training tricks. Monte Rogers' steer jumped a car. Dan Williams of Anaheim and his trained horse got a big "hand."

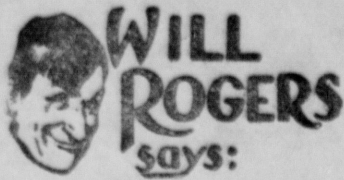

Spanish night tonight at 8 o'clock will be colorful and romantic, with music, dance and song. The one-act play, "The Belle of San Juan," by Arthur Collins, is written around an imaginary legend of the old mission town of Capistrano. The play is being directed by Harry Owens Enderby, and she reports a well chosen cast, that has shown a great interest, and is working hard to make this night's performance a success. The setting is the patio of an old California hacienda, in the early "sixties."

welfare Director Rhea Crawford Spillvalle deliberately introduced appropriation amendments in order to kill the entire bill.

The legislature swung into step with President Roosevelt's National recovery program. Three sets of bills, all conforming with federal statutes but controlling business units unaffected by national legislation, were passed. One was the "baby" Nira bill. This measure will bring purely intra-state concerns under Rooseveltian decrees. Second were amendments to the bank statutes permitting state banks to enjoy bank deposit guarantees as provided under the Glass-Steagall bill. Third was a measure swinging California agriculture into line with the federal farm relief program.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, July 28. (To the Editor of The Register:) Well, the London conference closed. It just disbanded yesterday, but it ended the day it started. You will hear a lot of 'em say that it didn't accomplish anything, but it did. They stayed in session till every nation got thoroughly disgusted with each other. There is no place in the world to find out the shortcomings of each other like a conference. Now every delegation goes home and tells tales on the others. Of course we leave as the principal villain. We were supposed to bring the pie that they were to cut. When we didn't bring it, the banquet was a total loss. Where is the next conference? We just love to confer.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

A back-out saved the torch crooner from further embarrassment and stage hands were called to clear away the debris.

Meantime the young woman was dragged to the police station and booked on a charge of disturbing the peace. She said her name was "Jane Jones," was taken to Lincoln Heights jail.

Back at the theater, after a five minute wait, a highly distrustful Hutton went on the stage again. "We stage people," he said, "while nervously wiping the perspiration from his many chins, 'always insist that the show must go on.'"

Voice Quavers
Then he began singing and if his voice had a few extra quavers it must be remembered that he was so busy eyeing the audience for any further contributions that he had difficulty keeping his mind on his work.

First he sang, "Take Me As I Am." This sweet ballad, it was intimated, was one selection he had dedicated to his wife.

Pausing for breath he quipped: "I understand 'The Desert Song' is barred from this theater."

Laughter greeted this sally which quite pointedly referred to Almee's "kidnaping" and her subsequent appearance on the desert near Douglas, Ariz.

Then he launched into the famed song which thrilled Almee time and again: "My Faith In You."

Although he was slightly off key at times and depended more upon volume than he did melody, his winsome smile and dimples saved him from complete eclipse.

The big storm scene was in "Ducking Dave's" dressing room after the act when Hutton stormed in followed by his manager, Harry Brandon, and the stage director. "It's an outrage!" shouted Dave. "It's an outrage!"

"It must be some fanatic from Angelus Temple," suggested Brandon.

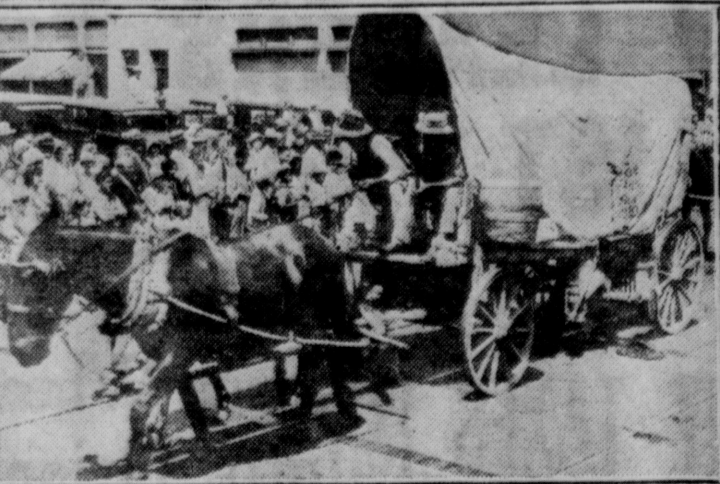

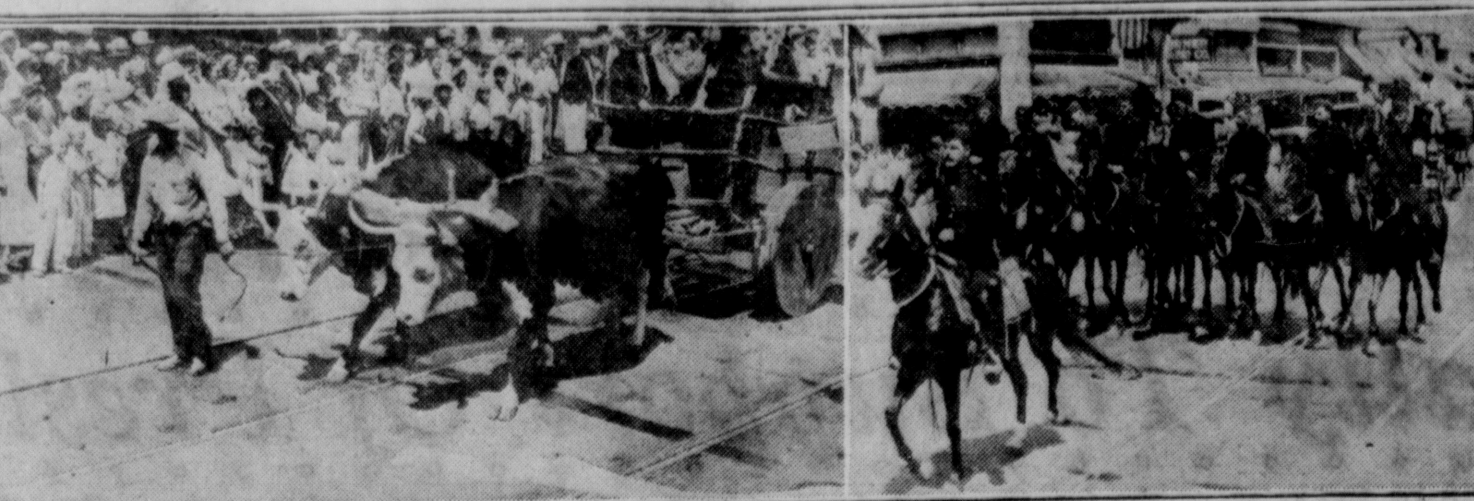

"More likely it was someone trying to get publicity," thundered Hutton, "trying to get publicity by hooking up their name with a big name like mine."

"Now, now," said the flustered stage director, "trying to cut bread on the troubled waters. I don't think it would be a thing like that, Mr. McPherson—or ah—I mean Mr. Hutton."

The Japanese government heavily subsidizes all Japanese companies engaged in automobile manufacture.

REDUCTION OF PENALTIES ON DELINQUENT TAXES IS TOLD BY COUNTY ASSESSOR TODAY

no redemption be made by April 20, 1938, payments made apparently become rental only for the continued use of the land, and will not be applied toward redemption.

Redemption Procedure
But dealing to the state is not altogether relinquishing the rights of the owner, nor even greatly impairing them, for the new law permits the redeeming of deeded property by the owner or his successors in interest by paying the amount of taxes, together with interest at 7 per cent on the whole amount of delinquent taxes figured from July 1, 1932.

Heretofore the redemption of property sold to the state has necessitated the paying of the penalties imposed by the tax collector, together with the costs of 50 cents per parcel sold. These penalties for delinquency, as they are termed, have been 10 per cent on the first installment delinquent, December 5, 5 per cent on the second installment, delinquent ordinarily April 20, with an additional 5 per cent on the first half on April 20. These were amended to become 8 per cent, 3 per cent and 3 per cent. This has meant an average of 10 per cent, to which total is added the 50 cents costs.

Under the new bill these penalties for delinquency and the costs are waived upon payment of the new 7 per cent interest on redemption, together with delinquent taxes, all previous redemption penalties also having been annulled in the new law.

Permits Installment Payment
Another provision of the act postpones auction of property and permits installment payment of delinquent taxes under certain conditions. Though 10 installments are permitted, redemption must be made before April 30, 1938, in order to have such payments, together with interest and penalties, applied to redemption. Payments of not less than one-tenth, together with interest and penalties, are required. Should

Some similarity of terms has confused many persons, Mr. Lambert observed, as the term "sale" as used in the law and by those handling taxes is meant to refer to the first year of delinquency, when unpaid taxes are published and a sale number given. At this time they are reported to the state by the tax collector. The actual auction has previous to this year been held on the same date and in the same place by the same official, when the actual change of ownership was made provided that a bidder was found.

Under Senate Bill No. 93, no auction will be held this year, but property which would have been offered at auction will be deeded to the state, and may subsequently be redeemed by the owner.

Under the new bill these penalties for delinquency and the costs are waived upon payment of the new 7 per cent interest on redemption, together with delinquent taxes, all previous redemption penalties also having been annulled in the new law.

fied, either by a hardening of the level of value of the American dollar or by a lessening of the rigid attitude of the gold standard nations.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chief American delegate, may take occasion around the time of the debt negotiations to initiate important tariff reduction negotiations, proposing a series of direct agreements between two nations or general agreements among a number of nations.

The conference's failure to reach any decisions whatsoever was complete. The wheat negotiators, last to give up, decided to recess their own efforts to agree to world wheat control until August 21.

What may emerge as the most important positive result of the conference was announced at the final plenary session ended—an agreement among the units of the British empire to maintain stable currency among each other and work for higher prices for commodities.

The one note of hope was offered by President Roosevelt's parting message, in which he insisted that the conference was not a failure and was not dead.

Today's London newspapers, though they agreed in calling the conference a failure in fact, reflected President Roosevelt's thought that indirectly it had done good.

The Daily Mail in discussing the conference results speculated on the possibility of increased European isolationism. Britain, it said, was likely to try to reduce its dependence on foreign goods and food, and France intended to do so also. Britain, however, would continue to cooperate with the United States and Argentina, the Daily Mail thought.

BURGLARY SUSPECT HELD IN VENTURA

With nothing more than a license number for identification, sheriff's officers announced this afternoon that L. M. Guyon, wanted for burglary in Anaheim, had been taken in custody at Ventura at noon today.

The license number of Guyon's car enabled officers to use the police teletype system and flash a description over the state last night. Deputy Sheriff Herman Zabel received word at noon that the suspect was being held in Ventura, and Deputy Sheriff Earl Nickles left at once to bring him to Santa Ana.

AWARD PRIZES FOR ENTRIES IN FIESTA PARADE

With W. F. Menton, W. C. Jerome and Terry E. Stephenson acting as judges, awards for five divisions in the old western parade staged here yesterday were announced at the afternoon performance at Santa Ana stadium in the first of the Fiesta del Oro programs.

In Division A, the first prize was won by the Orange County Breakfast club, which entered an old chuck wagon. Second prize was taken by the Newport Harbor Chamber of commerce, whose float depicted a beach scene in the gay '90's. The California Lancers won third prize with their picturesque mounted entry.

Daughters, Sons Win

Native Daughters of the Golden West, Santa Ana chapter, captured first prize in the Division B with an old wagon which carried a sign, "Santa Ana or Bust." Royal Neighbors of Santa Ana took second prize, while third prize went to Native Sons of California, who entered a covered wagon and surrery.

In Division C, Charles S. Kelly, Santa Ana pioneer druggist, took first prize with his entry of an oxen team pulling an ancient wooden-wheeled cart. Kelly was dressed as a monk and with him rode two charming girls, Nita Corey and Esther Coy, dressed in Spanish costumes. Swanberger's store won second prize with an old covered wagon entry. Third prize went to Bishop's School for Boys at Costa Mesa which entered marching, mounted and other entries.

H. B. Gets Prize

Huntington Beach, entering an old settler's covered wagon, with music of an old-fashioned nature coming from the float, was awarded first prize in Division D. Zola Maaz, riding an old-fashioned side-saddle in an ancient costume, won second prize. Third prize went to Leonard Hamaker, attired as an old miner.

The Long Beach Municipal band won first prize in Division E, the last division, while the Southwest Boy's band of Los Angeles won second prize with a marching band unit. Third prize went to Ray's Red Shirts of Orange, directed by Ray Minnix.

Old Side Saddle

A feature of the parade, which included every conceivable type of old vehicle, plainsmen, Indians, Spaniards, Mexicans and pioneers, as well as riding units, was the appearance of Mrs. Harold Bullock, formerly Miss Boush Thompson, on a famous side saddle owned and loaned by Mrs. M. H. Bardin, 701 East First street.

Mrs. Bardin, once a famous horsewoman, won the saddle in the Salinas, California rodeo in 1886 and the following year took first prize riding on the saddle at the Sacramento State fair. Mrs. Bardin got out of her sick-bed yesterday to see her prized saddle ridden in the parade.

Another big rodeo parade will be staged tomorrow afternoon at 1 p. m. over the same route.

PLEADS GUILTY TO POSING AS OFFICER

Application for reduction of the bail of C. G. Lewis, who pleaded guilty to a charge of impersonating an officer, this morning was denied by Superior Judge James L. Allen.

Lewis pleaded guilty to the charge, a misdemeanor, and applied for probation. He is charged by the district attorney with impersonating an officer and taking in custody of Elvado Connelly at Newport Beach. He is alleged to have made improper advances to the girl.

Hearing on Lewis' plea for probation was set for next Friday and his attorney, A. P. Nelson, asked that Lewis' bail be reduced from $1000 to $500. He told the court that Lewis has a position in Los Angeles and a mother and father to support. He declared that Lewis could not provide the $1000 bail but could post $500. The plea was denied after Judge Allen had read the transcript of evidence taken at Lewis' preliminary hearing before Judge Leonard at Newport Beach.

YOUTHS GET THREE MONTHS PROBATION

Ernest Ingersoll and Kenneth McMillan, found guilty several days ago of contributing to the delinquency of two minor girls, were granted probation this morning by Superior Judge G. K. Scofield. The youths were placed on probation for two years, providing they spend three months in the county jail.

The two youths were convicted of contributing to the delinquency of two Smeltzer girls, 14 and 15 years old, by keeping the mouth until a late hour, giving them intoxicating liquor and through commission of a statutory offense.

PRICE OF MILK IS INCREASED IN SANTA ANA

Following a joint meeting last night of Associated and Independent Pasteurized Distributors and a committee of the Organized Producers Groups of Los Angeles, milk prices in Santa Ana were increased this morning. Effective today the retail price on milk is 11 cents per quart, a one cent raise. Cream is 13 cents for half pints, a one cent raise and the price on pints of milk also increased one cent to eight cents.

The increase in the retail price for milk followed the increase in the price paid to producers. The producers' price became effective July 26 when the price went up to 49 cents with a three cent contribution to surplus.

According to C. H. Christia, secretary-manager of the Orange County Dairymen's association, this price raise was deemed necessary due to the increase in the price of feed and the gradual upturn of all other commodities necessary to the dairy industry.

Chicago Man Has Praise For City Despite Jail Term

Fame of Santa Ana and the enforcement of speed laws here has spread as far east as Chicago. Take the word of none other than a man who spent five days in the county jail for having too heavy a foot on the throttle of his automobile while passing through the city.

In a letter to his father, Fred Humiston, halting in department three, superior court, Miss Genevieve Humiston, who is visiting the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago, said that the man who dressed her hair in Chicago told her that he had spent five days in the Orange county jail for speeding and added a word of praise for Justice of the Peace Kenneth Morrison who imposed the sentence, saying that he is to be commended for his enforcement of the speed laws in this county.

LEAGUE TOLD OF ORDINANCE ON HANDBILLS

Provisions of the uniform handbill ordinance prepared by city attorneys of Orange county communities were outlined at a meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities at Newport Beach last night.

Dr. Hermann Hilmer, mayor, and the councilmen of the beach city were hosts to the city officials of the 13 cities. Dr. Hilmer gave the address of welcome and Albert Launer, city attorney of Fullerton and secretary of the league, responded.

Merchants will be permitted to distribute handbills in any community in which they have a bona-fide business, upon payment of a license fee of $5 per quarter, to persons who do not object to the distribution, and outside business houses or distributing companies must pay $20 per day for the privilege.

Copies in Council
Discussion of the handbill ordinance was led by George Holden, city attorney of Anaheim, chairman of the committee. Copies will be mailed to each city council in the county. Under the provisions, newspapers are permitted to distribute upon payment of a regular business license, provided that each such publication has a regular paid subscription list.

Holden said that a bona-fide merchant, who distributed only once a year, could do so at a cost of $5, by paying a quarterly fee. Citizens who object to the distribution may register such objection with the city clerk or post a sign on the premises. It would be obligatory upon the part of the merchant to ascertain from the city clerk the addresses of the objectors, and the ordinance provides a penalty of $800 fine or three months in jail, or both, for violations.

Councilman T. P. Corcoran of Fullerton was program chairman. Mayor Paul Witmer of Santa Ana discussed the national public works act. He said that H. H. Cotton, a member of the advisory committee, had advised that city councils must first approve programs for loans under the act and submit those programs to the board of supervisors. In cases of city halls or other public improvements that were a necessity, the government would pay 30 per cent of the cost, provided that bonds were passed by the voters or that the city had a piece of clear property that could be turned over to the government on a lease basis. He also said there is still about $3,000,000 to be loaned from the earthquake emergency fund.

Wheel Tax Discussed
The advisability of adopting a uniform "wheel tax" ordinance was discussed at some length, under the leadership of Ray Overacker, city attorney of Huntington Beach. The object of the ordinance, it was pointed out, is to compel laundries, bakeries, cleaners and others soliciting business in the city in competition with local merchants to pay a license fee. The courts decided there is no discrimination if the license fee asked is not excessive. The matter of reporting on a uniform ordinance was left to the committee of city attorneys.

Co-operative action on the part of the member cities in dealing with the feeding of itinerants was referred to the committee of mayors, headed by Paul Witmer, and the same committee will wait upon the supervisors and ask why cities must pay 20 cents per meal for the care of prisoners in the county jail, when the county pays at the rate of 14 cents per meal.

Following a long discussion, the meeting voted by cities to support the play of the Temporary Reorganization Committee of Southern Municipalities for reorganization of the California League of Municipalities and to appoint two delegates to meet with representatives of other communities to further the project, which will come before the convention of the state body in September at Santa Cruz. It was explained that the object was to do away with the old feeling between the northern and southern sections of the state.

Farm Bureau To Provide Facts On Recovery Program

Information regarding the cooperation of ranchers with President Roosevelt in the National Recovery program will be available tomorrow at the office of the Orange County Farm Bureau, according to R. D. Flaherty.

To date the farmer has not been informed whether or not he is to co-operate under the National Recovery act or whether his co-operation is controlled solely by the Agricultural Adjustment act. Some of the farmers have been sent copies of the agreement being signed by merchants and manufacturers while others have not received them.

MOTORISTS URGED TO USE SAFETY LANE

A complete city block will be required for the safety lane tests to be held in Santa Ana for six days starting Wednesday, August 2. The photograph below shows how the safety lane will be arranged.

SAFETY LANE OPENS IN S. A. ON WEDNESDAY

"Be safe via safety lane," has been adopted as the slogan by officials in charge of the safety lane to be held in Santa Ana starting Wednesday, August 2, under the sponsorship of Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard and the Orange County Automobile club.

The campaign will be held for six days and will be one of the most constructive drives for safety ever staged in this vicinity for the prevention of motor vehicle accidents. It was pointed out. Safety lane includes a test of brakes, headlights, horn, mirror and windshield wiper, wheel alignment and steering wheel play, making use of the latest equipment scientifically designed for this purpose.

The inspection will be free to the public and every motor car owner has been invited to have his car checked. The location will be announced later.

Owners of cars successfully passing all tests will be issued an O. K. sticker to be pasted on the windshield. Drivers whose cars fail to pass the tests will be given a duplicate of the official test showing the various adjustments which are necessary to safety. By having these adjustments made and certified on the back of the card, the motorist will receive an O. K. sticker.

Defective car equipment causes or is a contributing factor to 15 to 30 per cent of motor vehicle accidents, according to those in charge of the campaign.

BUTLER TELLS HOW HE'D END KIDNAP RACKET

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

NEWTOWN SQUARE, Pa., July 28.—(UP)—The kidnaping racket now sweeping the nation could be stopped within a month, Major General Smedley D. Butler said in an interview today.

"Let the president of the United States declare a modified form of martial law—superseding civil rights and civil courts only in cases of gangsters and racketeers—and we'll soon see the end of the rats who live on ransom money," Butler told the United Press.

Under Butler's plan of "modified martial law" there would be no need to call out the armed forces of the country.

"The president merely would designate a marshal in each section affected by racketeering with power to arrest all criminals on sight," he said. "Immediately trials would be conducted like a military court martial."

The essence of the former marine general's plan would come when the racketeer faced the court.

"The suspect would be asked to show how he honestly earned the money which permitted him to live in expensive apartments and drive high priced cars, and when he couldn't show an honest job for the past few years, he would be automatically sentenced to a tropical island for an indefinite sentence."

There would be no appeal, no high priced lawyers, no long drawn out litigation under the Butler plan.

"The only appeal would be to the president of the United States," he said.

"Local and state police forces, for obvious reasons, are powerless in combatting kidnapings and federal authorities are greatly handicapped by inadequate laws and small force of investigators."

"Most kidnapers are either old time criminals with police records or bootleggers and gangsters."

"A real federal force of provost marshals, operating under the district marshal, would have little trouble in bringing in the criminals and gangsters within a month. And the action of the provost court would be swift and sure, uninfluenced by political considerations."

"That such a method has precedent and is effective is clearly shown by the marine guards on mail trucks in 1921 and 1926," he continued.

"In 1926, in a five month period, bandits killed 14 mail clerks and stole $9,000,000. When the marines were sent to guard the mail under a modified form of martial law the robbers stopped instantly."

CARDS ENJOYED

ATWOOD, July 28.—A card club which meets every week met recently at Tonner canyon at the General Petroleum picnic grounds for a steak bake. Later in the evening the party enjoyed cards at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dodson.

Present were Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Gillman, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Schenck of Placencia; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Goff and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dodson.

CLOTHING STORE BOOSTS SALARIES

Notice by the Brooks Clothing company that salaries would be increased in every store has been received by Milton Tatle, Santa Ana manager. The increase will go into effect at once.

Executives of the company attended a meeting of leading clothiers in Los Angeles and it is said that Brooks was one of the first to announce raises in wages. A photostatic copy of the original telegram to President Roosevelt, advising him of the action, has been posted in the window of the local store at Fourth and Bush streets.

'CORNERED' SHOWN AT STATE THEATER

Called the "Grand Hotel" among western pictures, Tim McCoy's latest film, "Cornered," showing at Walker's State theater, has a supporting cast such as no other "western" has ever had, with Shirley Grey as the heroine, Niles Welch as the romantic leading man, Noah Beery, Raymond Hatton and Walter Long as the principal heavies, and Claire McDowell, Lloyd Ingraham and John Eberts as the chief character actors. McCoy plays the role of a Wyoming sheriff who suffers disgrace when his prisoner escapes, but redeems himself by proving the man was innocent and bringing the real culprit to justice.

RUBBER COMPANY AIDS WORK PLAN

Immediate action to put President Roosevelt's employment plan into effect for all Goodrich-Silverton, Inc., stores in the United States was ordered today by the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company. It was learned from Orval Lyon, Santa Ana manager, who received a telegram from the president of the company.

All employees of the tire stores are to come under the provisions of the new policy. Lyon was advised, with August 1 set as the date for the plan to take effect. No employee will be allowed to work more than 40 hours per week except supervisory employees and every detail of the president's salary program will be followed.

No salaries will be reduced in cases where employees are receiving more than the minimum. It was pointed out in the telegram. Additional men to be hired will receive at least the minimum wage, it is stated.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG -- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON By GEORGE DURNON

JOBLESS

Statistics—generally boring—sometimes are downright unpleasant.

The American Federation of Labor is about to issue some on the unemployment situation which may fall in the latter category. They are recommended to all business men for study, for they will show exactly what this Nation is up against.

Figures now in course of final preparation will show there are still 12,000,000 men and women out of work.

Rosy reports have been bandied about in Wall Street and elsewhere that 4,000,000 have been returned to jobs since the start of the New Deal. Bank, unfortunately, as a matter of fact the number of re-employed between March 1 and June 1 stood at 1,500,000. Since the latter date the upward trend has been negligible. The gain for this month over last will be about 7-10 of one per cent.

As July draws to a close the trade union employment trend continues to show no improvement over June. The building trades and the metal trades are going to show a decrease in jobs for July despite the fact that wholesale prices in those industries are leading the field in returning to a 1926 level.

trade union unemployment trend backbone of the situation because it trickles into so many other lines.

Furthermore, A. F. of L. information is going to show the auto and coal industries are still holding back in putting new men to work. Steel was in the same boat until recently.

DRIVE

Union labor meantime is letting no grass grow under its feet. Those on the inside at headquarters will tell you confidentially—and jubilantly—that over 30 brand new national charters have been granted since July 1.

This is a result of the most successful drives undertaken in organized labor's history. You may get an idea of how fast men and women are being unionized by considering the fact that before it started there was a grand total of 103 national and international charters.

And out in the field new locals are being formed right and left. Membership in old ones is swelling like buds in Spring.

Crews of organizers in automobiles are working night and day in every section.

Look for a statement on this about the first of next week from National Secretary Frank Morrison.

FRICITION

It is going to take all the finesse and diplomacy that President Roosevelt and General Hugh Johnson possess to avert an open showdown between industry and organized labor.

Industrialists who are here literally by the thousands are complaining bitterly against unionization. It seems to be their one big remaining objection to NRA's progress. Although many are shaking in their shoes they have determined to go along with the administration—but they're having a lot of trouble getting the A. F. of L. past their tonsils.

Johnson and his aides patiently explain over and over that the government can do nothing about it. The Industrial Recovery Act clearly confers the right of collective bargaining, self-organization and appointment of representatives to all employees. They can join a company union if they want. Also they can acquire a union card.

And the devil will take the hindmost.

COUZENS

Now that all the shooting is over at London many persons are asking just how Senator James Couzens of Michigan, the lone Republican on the American delegation, fared.

Take it on the word of a trained and capable observer who returned from the Economic Conference just before it closed that Couzens fared in darn well. "If Couzens didn't do anything else," said this man who must remain nameless, "with the aid of Senator Pittman he kept a lot of feet on the ground."

"But what's the difference?" was asked. "This was the first Conference we didn't lose, wasn't it?"

GUNMEN

Government agents are finding one great deterrent in their drive against the gangster and the racketeer in the fact that so many states do not require the licensing of automobile drivers.

There are 21 states in which a person may drive an auto without examination or registration. Eighteen of this number do not even call for licensing of chauffeurs. Illinois is one of the states where Federal men most earnestly wish the driving permit would be adopted.

They will tell you such little things as this often help tremendously in running some gunmen to earth.

BREAKS

The fair-weather boys who called their radio stations last Monday night and subscribed enthusiastically to President Roosevelt's ethical appeal for support ought to uncross their fingers.

Old Uncle Bogey Man from Washington will catch up with them yet.

It was all very well for every enthusiast of the moment to call or wire in a trick endorsement of the blanket code with fancy phrases to get around a literal application. The temporary code contains just so many words. Each one means exactly what it says according to our best legal interpretation.

High-ups here will tell you a lot of people will presently ask the clerk when they walk into stores if he's getting the pay and hour break his boss promised for advertising purposes the other night.

NOTES

It was kind of funny the other night to be at a country club supper dance and hear the conversation from three adjoining tables. . . . The hosts at all three were substantial business executives. . . . Before their late meal was half through each had asked his guest for an opinion of what Roosevelt was "going to do" . . . Take another tip as to what Big Business will do by considering the able woolen man who came here to submit a minority code.

After he arrived and looked around he produced a spade and buried the minority report deeper than an old maid's secret. . . . Jim Farley takes care of a stupendous mail better than anyone who has been in Washington for years—save possibly the President. . . . Don't take this as an invitation to write just for the sake of an answer. . . . Both have enough work and troubles without dealing with the extraneous hoop-la.

NEW YORK

By James McMullin

DISCIPLINE

The big stick—1933 model—hangs heavy over the oil industry's head. It is due to crack down on stubborn skulls in the near future.

Local oil men get private but emphatic word that the government is fed up with the dizzy antics of the biggest troupe of non-cooperators in the country. If the boys pull any more phony gestures they will wake up wondering what hit them.

Several leaders in the industry really want to play ball, but their voices have been drowned in the babble of "individualist" ideas. So they have given up hope of internal agreement and privately appealed to the government to do its stuff. The government will.

The Big Stick will swing in two directions.

One will be stiff Federal licensing requirements for companies and individual operators. They will be required to subscribe to a code drafted by NRA itself in order to do business. And the code will be a pipkin.

The other part of the stick work will be even more drastic and will aim straight at the industry's worst disease—over-production. It involves the Federal purchase of operating oil properties, whether the owners want to sell or not. The properties would be turned over to the Navy Department and taken out of production. Opinion here is that the President has power to do this as a national emergency measure if he wants to.

This plan ties in nicely with the Navy Department's long-suppressed desire to set up an oil plant of its own, complete with pipe lines and refineries. At present all it has is some untapped land. It doesn't even know for sure whether there is any oil under it or not.

This measure has not been fully decided upon, but is under serious consideration. The whisper is that the proportionate land purchases from various companies will be in inverse ratio to the spirit of co-operation they have shown. What could be sweeter?

LUMBER

The big stick may also be used on the lumber industry. They tried to sneak over a fast one when General Johnson wasn't looking. They urged immediate acceptance of their code on grounds of patriotic zeal to get going. The code contained provision for a 40 to 48-hour week, with the accent on the 48. They actually hoped to get away with it.

The won't. General Johnson wasn't too busy to get the idea. The code they will get will be quite different from the one they tried to put across.

New York insiders say that a couple of horrible examples will do a world of good.

Too many business men have had the idea that the NRA was just playing poker. They were beginning to think that any old code they chose to offer would be accepted in the sacred name of voluntary co-operation. They will find out otherwise.

Broadway at 5th Phone 274

The dope here is that pats on the head and kicks where they will do the most good will be distributed roughly as deserved. There will be a lot of changed attitudes when that sinks in.

BLANKET

The President's radio talk about the Blanket Code went over big in New York. Even the most confirmed Tories see a different picture than they did a few weeks ago. They admit privately there is no use trying to play King Canute against the tide of public opinion Mr. Roosevelt has mobilized.

Organized labor will serve as useful special police in enforcing the Blanket Code. Union members will be urged to keep an eye out for violations of the code and report them promptly.

RETAIL

You may have noticed that the Retail Code—which was introduced with a blast of trumpets some weeks ago—has been quietly pigeon-holed. That's because NRA told the retailers they wouldn't even hold a hearing on any 48-hour week.

The dry-gooders took the rebuff with good grace. They decided—wisely—not to try to get tough about it. New York retailers are among the most sincere and enthusiastic supporters of the Blanket Code. They have to be. They are in closer contact with the public in huge gob than anybody else.

TEXTILES

There will be plenty of inside grief before the textile code gets to working smoothly. Skilled workers have been released from factories near New York because they are too old to handle multiple looms. The Federation of Labor is drawing its breath for a terrific yell on the subject.

JAPAN

The Japanese business and financial world cocks a sharp eye on America and the Roosevelt Recovery plan. New Yorkers with big interests there report Nippon's business barometer an exact parallel of ours.

Roosevelt inflation is being watched especially—and nervously. The fear is that in following suit a second collapse in the United States might land Japan in catastrophe.

The militarists watch every shift of a print—and make it feed their own.

GOLD ARROW! It's perfected at last—the money-saving motor fuel—the mellowed, power-mileage gasoline . . . made exclusively by Western Oil & Refining Company's own multi-refining process: Prolonged Cracking Distillation. By this process, which takes longer to make the gasoline, the "crude" is not rushed through under extreme scorching heat but is made to circulate and re-circulate more than two hours in the cracking stills. Gold Arrow is mellowed; it is stabilized—free from the "wild ends" of raw petroleum that cause jumpy motor performance. It has heightened Anti-knock rating but without the sacrifice of extra Power-mileage. It is colored golden amber.

SILVER ARROW, too! Companion product to the new Gold Arrow is SILVER ARROW Gasoline. It has the same all-around performance of the popular Western Gasoline and completes this team of great motor fuels.

A Real Problem for America—

250,000

Wandering Women

The first lady interests herself in the jobless woman . . . Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt inspecting the camp for jobless women at Bear Mountain Park, N. Y. . . . which was established by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins at Mrs. Roosevelt's suggestion.

By Katharine Amend

DRIVING automobiles too old to have any sales value, riding in busses, sneaking rides in dirty freight cars, hitch-hiking, there is one of the strangest armies this country has ever known.

This nomad army is made up of women and girls, penniless or nearly penniless. They range in age from 12 years to 86. And they are roaming from town to town, from coast to coast, in search of work.

Nobody knows how many of them there are. People who are in the best position to know give out cautious estimates for public consumption that are far below the estimates they give in private conversations.

The best guess is that there are more than 250,000.

For lack of a better word people call these drifting women hoboes. But a hobo does not want honest work. These women want it desperately.

America has always had some men and boys drifting up and down the country; the drifting woman is a new problem.

FOR many years most large cities have had their hobo missions where the homeless man could get a night's lodging, a scanty supper, and a coffee and bread breakfast, before he had to move on. When the depression drove hundreds of thousands of men to the road in search of work, the old hobo missions simply enlarged their activities to care for them.

The few organizations that cared in the past for the stranded woman sat back bewildered when the women, too, took to hunting jobs away from their home towns.

These organizations, whose main function has always been the making of arrangements to get penniless women back home, have continued to work on the Victorian theory that a woman is a dependent for whom someone should be responsible.

But although a "case worker" may insist that if a destitute woman has a brother somewhere she should go back to him for support, the woman herself knows that her brother's wife feels no responsibility to share her family's tiny income with her, an able-bodied woman who has been self-supporting.

The girl whose family is already receiving a charity dole is not going to be turned from her search for work and sent back to share the dole.

NO city or county in these times takes any responsibility for relief for stranded strangers.

Indeed, very few cities or towns give any relief to what they call "unattached" residents, male or female. "Families first," they say. Unfortunately, starvation is just as painful to the unattached as to the member of a family.

Jobless and broke, a vast feminine army is roaming the country like hoboes, hitch-hiking and freight-hopping from coast to coast in search of work

The girls who ride in box-cars usually wear overalls to save their clothes for job-hunting in the cities.

At Bear Mountain Park, N. Y., the federal government has started a project designed to give relief to jobless women. This is a camp, designed to accommodate 300 women, started by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins at the suggestion of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Women are recruited through the New York state relief agencies, and the expenses are borne by federal funds.

Because we have as yet no adequate system for reporting the total number of unemployed people in the whole country, we cannot know how many women are actually unemployed today. Providence, Rhode Island, says it has 24,000 jobless women, Milwaukee 16,000, Kansas City 7000 with more than 2000 of that number with one to nine dependents.

How do these women live, since the majority of them never had wages large enough to allow them to save much against a rainy day?

They spend their days going from office to office, from store to store, from agency to agency, hunting the jobs that do not exist. At night they wash and iron what clothes they have left, in order to present a respectable front for the following day's fruitless search.

Every work agency has its story of women and girls who have been asked how they are managing to exist and who have left abruptly with stiffened lips or burst into nerve-wracked tears.

Remembering the stories we have read of gold-diggers, alimony parasites and other female racketeers, we are astonished by the universal testimony of relief workers that women hold out till their strength fails before they try to get public aid.

But three years is a long time to starve. In the last three months of last year the New York City Central Registration Bureau had

SOME have gone to relatives in spite of their pride. Some are allowing themselves to be exploited as houseworkers for mere bed and board, with no allowance even for clothing. Others in such jobs get very microscopic wages.

Others are living three or more in a room on which the rent is long overdue, pooling their resources to buy the scanty amount of food that keeps them from dropping in the streets.

only 983 pleas for help; in the first three months of this year it had 2480.

The hardest and most enterprising women take to the road. There must be jobs somewhere, they argue. There must be some jobs of some kind somewhere—maybe in Florida, in California, in Chicago.

THEY like to travel in pairs for protection. As they usually have five dollars or so left, the first stage is often made by bus. Or they may hitch-hike—for hitch-hiking has gained a semi-respectability as a student stunt in the past. The final resort is the railroad box cars.

Nobody knows how they manage to live. Because they do not apply to social agencies, knowing their old-fashioned standards, few social agencies are actively aware of their existence except by hearsay.

Recently the regional director of the Salvation Army in a large eastern city was asked if many penniless women came to the town.

"Oh, no. We had over 200 transient men last night, but all the agencies together have had only 40 stranded women in the last month."

A check-up made by questioning the 200 transient men gave an entirely different story.

"Women on the road these days? Sure. Not so many as men, but—well, nine girls traveling together hopped off the same car I was in when we hit the freight yards last night."

Lots of the homeless girls take to hitch-hiking in their hunt for work . . . since hitch-hiking has gained semi-respectability as a student stunt in the past.

"WOMEN on the road? Lots of them. More in the west and southwest than around here. They go west mostly, like the men. Men with them sometimes—fellows they've picked up to rustle grub for them when they're too timid to panhandle for themselves.

"Saw two girls in the car I was riding in yesterday. Nice girls, too. No, I don't know what happened to them. We all hopped off together when the train slowed down outside of town. Have to do that to keep out of the hands of the dicks."

"Women on the road? Sure. Saw a funny thing yesterday—woman with seven little kids. She was hitch-hiking from Alabama to Boston, where she used to live. Husband went off job-hunting and she don't know where he is. She says the trucks traveling at night are best for lifts."

"Women on the road? Sure. Yesterday I saw three of them in a rattled old car asking a service station fellow if they couldn't clean up his place in exchange for gas and oil. He just gave it to them. They kept saying they wanted to work for it."

A PLEASANT-LOOKING young man, who has not been able to find a job since he finished college a year ago, said, "I've run across lots of them. All over the country. On the freight trains and hitch-hiking—even walking.

"The ones in box cars usually wear overalls to save their clothes for job-hunting in the cities. Boxcar riding is pretty dirty, with the dust and soot and all. These girls usually carry a little bag with powder and a clean dress and such stuff.

"Some of them are tough, of course. They don't mean to be when they start out. But men rustle grub better and—well, it's a kind of barter.

"Nice ones don't mix much with the men, but I've talked with some of them. They say that in bad weather they try to travel in freights by night. Or they crawl into empty sheds or old houses, or sneak into barns, after dark. In good weather they just sleep out. They say the worst part is trying to get water to drink and keep clean with."

WHAT can be done for these women and girls? Dole and charity-shelters are stupid answers to the problem.

Some of the wanderers are too ill, too old, or too unstrung by their hardships, to be efficient workers anywhere again. The majority are able to work, and want to.

Economists tell us that technical improvements, perfected during the depression to cut the costs of production, are going to leave part of the population unemployed for a long time.

But even in this country there is a lot of work to be done on projects that could not be attempted except for the surplus labor. Witness the forest reclamation work being done by boys and men.

The provision of work, not charity, for these drifting women, work that will at least provide the chance to earn beds and food, is going to be the test of American social intelligence.

LONG FAMILY RETURNS FROM ALASKA TRIP

ORANGE, July 28.—Mrs. Louis DeLong and daughter, Miss Lois DeLong, returned this week from a trip to Alaska, sailing from Seattle for that country July 3. While in Alaska the travelers saw the midnight sun. They made the trip north by steamer, which was used as fuel.

Mrs. DeLong was especially impressed with the floral beauty of the far north, and at Dawson she visited flower gardens where pansies, which had been planted but a short time before, measured the size of small saucers. Delphinium in the gardens grows eight and 10 feet high. The delphinium grows wild, and the blossoms are dark blue, Mrs. DeLong says.

Wild flowers seen on the trip were especially lovely, with wild roses of unusual sizes and a flower greatly like the lily of the valley, called the languid lady, predominating. The latter blossoms are much larger than lilies of the valley and are pale blue on the outside and pale pink inside. The flowers make their rapid growth and attain their immense sizes because they have sunlight 24 hours a day, Mrs. DeLong says.

SOTHORON STEPS IN
Bill Killefer was a great catcher in his day, but as manager of the St. Louis Browns he found he couldn't catch the fast ones heaved at him from the front office. So out goes Bill and in steps Al Sothoron, once great spitball pitcher.

Sothoron was more than a spitball pitcher in his day. He had a few ways of what ball players call "mussing up" a baseball to make it perform in strange pranks. Umpires tossed out of the game hundreds of new balls marred by peculiar defects when Sothoron was on the slab.

Once in St. Louis, umpires carefully examined a dozen balls and found each suffering the same symptoms—a slice along the seam which caused a rough spot. The cut was as sharp as though inflicted by a razor blade. The effect was startling—the old apple would dart at a 45-degree angle as it reached the plate.

THEY BUNTED HIM OUT
Sothoron's story as a pitcher is a strange one. When he came up to the Browns in 1914, he was recognized as one of the richest pitchers ever found. Besides his sweeping spitter he had a good fast one, a curve, control, change of pace—just about everything that a great pitcher requires.

But he could not field his position. On bunts or easy taps hit straight to him he lost his bearings. He has thrown more balls into the grandstand than any other pitcher in the majors. The world got around and the boys started bunting on him. In 1920, a year in which he won 20 games, Sothoron's fielding average was .812, the lowest ever recorded by a regular pitcher.

RESCUED BY RICKEY
Finally the Browns gave up on him. He was shunted to the Red Sox, then to the Indians. Speaker gave up trying to correct the fault after a year's trial. In 1922 Sothoron gave up, disgusted, and accepted a transfer to Louisville.

But Branch Rickey, who as manager of the Browns in 1914 had discovered Sothoron, was unwilling to believe that such an evil could not be corrected. He purchased the pitcher for the Cardinals in 1924. Rickey gave him a special course in fielding bunts, an hour daily for weeks. He had observed that Sothoron scooped the ball, whirled and threw, without steadying himself. Rickey made him deliberately pause with the ball in his hand and aim.

And Sothoron, in 1924, became one of the few pitchers in the National league to record a perfect fielding average.

THE TOUGHEST GRIND
Perhaps the marathon dance is the sternest test of endurance devised in the interests of physical torture. But the marathon bicycle race is not far behind.

There begins July 30 at Montreal an American counterpart of the trying Tour de France. More than 40 riders will start at the Montreal ball park on a 4300-mile road grind down through some of the border states and back to Montreal.

The bicycle marathon is as cruel to the riders as Pyle's Bunton Derby was to the runners who pushed their weary feet from coast to coast. The prize in this event is announced as $25,000—and it will be bitterly earned.

FOR 60,000 FRANCS
The Tour de France is a month of pedaling around the borders of France—through Brittany, the Basque country, up and down the hills of the Crau, winding around the roads of Savoy and the lower Alps, into Alsace and the north country, and finally—for some—Paris.

The cyclist travels that back-breaking highway alone, but he is under constant surveillance by officials who patrol the roads, peer out from among the pop-eyed peasants in the villages, trail the riders by day and by night. All this man endures for a chance to win 60,000 francs—plus the plaudits of Parisian boulevards which are packed with thousands as the hero flushes his Gethsemane.

PSYCHOLOGY?
In the Montreal marathon, some of the hardy European road racers who never know when they are licked will strive. Among these are the Czech Frantek Bartalska, German Otto Ludeke and Italian Mario Rossi. Six-day riders will try, among them such familiar names as Torchy Peden, Zemon St. Laurent, Reggie Fielding, Godfrey Parrott and Pierre Gachon.

Besides the physical angle, the tour is a study in raw human psychology—offering an inkling of what men will endure for money. For surely these robots of the road are not killing themselves for fun or fame.

Mrs. Moody To Play Ten More Years

TENNIS QUEEN DENIES SHE IS 'GOING BACK'

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I.N.S. Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS)—Little Helen Willis, the schoolgirl, won her first championship at something like the age of 14, her legs a little gangling and hair in two blonde braids. Miss Helen Willis, the debutante, won her first National women's championship in 1923, establishing a dynasty that has survived without serious challenge since her lone defeat at Nice by Mlle. Lenglen years ago.

Today, Mrs. Helen Willis Moody, the matron, sat in the lounge of the exclusive River club and announced that, in spite of dubious headshakes, notably by Mercer Beasley who seems to be the outstanding head-shaker of the generation, she gives herself a much as 10 years more of championship tennis.

Not as a champion, however. The young lady has reason to feel her share of self-possession. But she's no ego-maniac.

Says Others Much Improved
How long will she hold the title, then? Really, she couldn't say. Perhaps several years, perhaps longer; perhaps less. It might be that her time was coming in the National women's singles next month or even in the Wightman Cup matches next week. It isn't that she has gone back, it seems; only that so many others have come on.

"Improved players? Oh, dear me, yes," she said, almost with enthusiasm. "Many of them. You might name the whole British Wightman Cup team, for instance. They have all improved immensely."

Was she referring specifically to Dorothy Round, who took a set from her in the Wimbledon finals, the first time this had happened since 1927? No, not specifically, it seemed; the observation simply included Miss Round.

"A very fine player," she commented briefly and perhaps just a shade dryly.

She's 27 Now
So it appeared that she feared nobody in particular and everybody in general, being sure only of her own capabilities, so sure, in fact, that she felt they would or at least could out-live the next 10 years of first rank tennis.

"I'm only 27 now," she went on. "Others have played that long. Why shouldn't I? Maybe, of course, I won't want to. As to that, I intend merely to go on playing and let each year decide for itself."

If the lady seems a little tentative about her ideas there, she is not without a few decided opinions. Was she becoming conservative? Hadn't she been the pioneer of the no-stocking vogue at Wimbledon? It seemed not; indeed, most decidedly not.

"One of the pioneers," she corrected, gently. "What does the poet say? 'Be not the first to do the new, nor yet the last to cast aside the old?'"

STARS IDLE AS FLYERS, OILERS MIX TONIGHT

Santa Ana's Stars will be idle tonight when other National Night league clubs bounce into fifth round games at Anaheim, Huntington Beach and Torrance.

The Stars were originally scheduled to play Olive at the Bowl. Arrangements later were made to shift the affair to the Valencia, because of the Fiesta del Oro here, but eventually the contest was indefinitely postponed.

Santa Ana's next start will be at Fullerton Tuesday.

With Santa Ana drawing a bye for the first time this season, local interest will be divided between the Huntington Beach-Westminster game at Huntington Beach, and the Whittier-Anaheim tussle at Anaheim.

Fullerton invades Torrance for the third round of the evening.

Whittier, undefeated league leader, may have its pennant bubble broken at Anaheim. The Poets are playing well, but most observers believe they are shooting "over their heads" and will do well to finish in the first division. Anaheim is conceded an even chance at worst. Al Bushman is scheduled to hurl for the Valencia.

"String" McDonnell for Whittier. Huntington Beach, the second-place club and now slightly favored to grab the second-half flag as a result of Torrance's three defeats, will have plenty of trouble handling George Lackaye's greatly improved Westminster Aviators. Westminster has a splendid mound staff and recent additions have given the outfit enough hitting power to trouble even such a fine pitcher as "Chief" Sabella, who probably will draw "Fuzzy" Erington as his opposition tonight.

LUCKY SINGLE NETS NATS WIN IN TENTH

NEW YORK, July 28.—(INS)—Some men are born famous, some achieve fame and others have it thrust on them.

In the latter classification must be listed Cliff Bolton, Washington's third-string catcher, who yesterday fell out of the way of a pitched ball into the hall of fame.

The setting was perfect. It was the tenth inning, opening game of the current battle between the Senators and Yankees. The score was tied, two men were out, the bases were loaded as the result of three passes. Charley Ruffing was pitching for New York.

Up came Pinch-Hitter Bolton. As he jumped away from a fast one Bolton accidentally hit the ball, which streaked down the third base line for a hit. A runner scored and the Nats had a 3-2 victory, eight out of 11 triumps over the Yanks this year, and a lead of two games in the American league race.

The deer hunting season in California's district No. 4, which embraces Orange county as well as Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties, will begin this year at sunrise, August 21.

Word to this effect was officially received here today by W. E. Adkinson of Trabuco, county game warden, from K. P. Alred, assistant chief of patrol for the fish and game commission.

The season opens August 1 in districts 2, 2½ and 3. These districts take in counties lying along the coast north of Los Angeles and including Glenn and Mendocino.

M'Larnin To Box Corbett Again Sept. 4

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—(UP)—A title rematch between Jimmie McLarnin, Vancouver, B. C., welterweight champion, and Young Corbett, of Fresno, probably will be held here Labor Day, Sept. 4, it was asserted at a banquet of the Northern California Boxing Managers' association here last night.

Larry White made the announcement and it was endorsed by Tom Gallery, Dreamland promoter.

White said arrangements are "all but completed." McLarnin won the title from Corbett by a first-round knockout.

SOLIS DEFEATS FLEET IN LAST DELHI RING GO

Delhi's days as the boxing center of Orange county were over today.

Ring seats and other equipment that lured leather fans to the little southside community for many years were being removed from the Orange County Athletic club which, within a fortnight, will be transformed into a factory, occupied by the Paxton Nailing Machine company.

When and where Promoter Sam Samson moves his boxing plant nobody in authority was prepared to say. There will be no show next week, perhaps not for several weeks.

Delhi's fadeout was observed last night before a bumper crowd, despite the counter attraction of the Fiesta del Oro in Santa Ana.

Solis Finishes Fast

The arena closed properly enough after a hometown product, Delhi's Baby Sal Solis, took the main event from Luciano Fleet, Los Angeles Negro bantamweight. The match was fairly close until the last round, which Solis won, going away. Sal scored two knockdowns in the final heat and had Fleet on a bicycle to save himself.

Solis' brother, Raoul, wasn't as fortunate in the semi-final. Willie Collins, cleverest of Central avenue's colored lightweights, outclassed Raoul in every round. Collins punched faster and straighter, and his fancy footwork kept him far away from Solis' desperate punches.

"Bud" McCarter got off the floor to knock out Darrel Spears in the first round of the special event. Spears, colored, came out of his corner fighting like a wildman and one of his wild shots dropped McCarter for a four-count. "Bud" then swarmed all over Spears and stopped him just before the round closed.

Glover Whips Richards
Referee Kim Pratt elected Bob Westbrook and Ray Flier because Westbrook was far too good for Flier. Wesley Glover decided on Doyle Richards in a close one, Glover's first-round knockdown earning him the verdict.

Paul Brown outpointed Rico Ponce in an extra bout. Art Hernandez finished fast, scoring a last round knockdown, and won from Louie Marshall. Ken Matsuyama kayoed Leo Carrillo in one. Al Townsend outpointed Joe Stack. Walter Vaughn punched George Corbett full of holes, and John Launetta shaded Paul Vizer in the opener.

Delhi's representatives won five of the eight matches with the Los Angeles colored team.

BRITISH SWEEP SINGLES, NEAR DAVIS CUP WIN

ROLAND GARROS STADIUM, Auteuil, France, July 28.—(UP)—England's tennis forces scored a clean sweep in today's opening play for the Davis Cup when Fred Perry defeated Henry Cochet, 8-10, 6-4, 8-6, 3-6, 6-1, after Henry W. "Bunny" Austin had trounced Andre Merlon, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

England's success today virtually guaranteed their winning the cup, for now they need gain but victory in the doubles tomorrow or in one of Sunday's two singles matches to gain the necessary three points.

England's sweep shocked the gallery of 14,000 that braved the scorching sun to watch the play. France had expected Merlon to lose, for he is a youngster unskilled in international play, but had counted on Cochet, once the greatest of them all, to turn back Perry.

Cochet fought valiantly for four sets, but in the fifth his age began to tell, and he was an easy mark for Perry's blistering shots to all corners of the court.

After today's play experts conceded France little or no hope, for while Cochet might possibly beat Austin Sunday, it is inconceivable Merlon will be able to hold Perry in check.

Tomorrow's play calls for the doubles, with Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon meeting Perry and Patrick Hughes.

M'LARNIN GUEST ON NEWPORT FISH TRIP

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—Jimmy McLarnin, welterweight boxing champion of the world, went fishing yesterday out of Newport harbor on the fishing boat, "Dundee," as guest of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce.

With McLarnin also was Dr. Howard Seager, customs collector at the Los Angeles harbor; J. C. Tallman, boxing inspector of the state boxing commission, and M. S. Robinson, local harbor-master.

A fine catch was made both of bonita and yellowtail, and McLarnin was fortunate in bringing in a 12-pound and 12-ounce sea trout, a fish that is rare in local waters.

News Of Orange County Communities

BEACH PIONEER IS HONORED ON HIS BIRTHDAY

SEAL BEACH, July 28.—Seal Beach's first resident, Judge J. C. Ord, celebrates his ninety-first birthday here today. Judge Ord established the community when he moved a two-story frame building from Los Alamitos to its present site at Main street and Electric avenue. Thirty mules were used to drag the building across the fields in a journey here, some of the mules were so bony that planks were laid for miles to carry the load. For three months, Judge Ord was the only resident here.

He was born in Boston Vermont in 1842, one of the oldest of fifteen children; some of the family he has never seen. When the Civil war broke out, he left home to enlist with the Union army in Company E of the Ninth Vermont volunteers. At Harper's Ferry, he was taken prisoner and sent with other prisoners to fight Indians at Chicago after giving his word not to take up arms against the South again. Later, an official trade of prisoners was made and Judge Ord returned to active service in 1864. His excellent marksmanship in 1864 earned him a promotion to sharpshooter.

A member of the guard for General Grant, he witnessed the surrender of General Lee. Judge Ord stated that the southern troops were as jubilant as those of the North.

At the end of the war Judge Ord returned to his home in Vermont, and after a short time left to visit his brother who was then living there. Ord volunteered to take the place of his brother who had been drafted. The British said to quell an insurgent group of Union soldiers who unofficially started out to capture Canada for the United States. For his service with the British Army he received 16 cents a day, he stated; a few years ago, he received a check from the British government for his service.

In 1886, Judge Ord started for California; he caught a steamer on the east coast and landed at Nicaragua where he crossed the Isthmus by flatboat and afoot to ship on a wood burning steamer for San Francisco. After a fruitless search for work, he purchased some blankets and, for the next year, toured the state as a hobo. He settled for a while at Grass Valley, then went back to his home where he served as postmaster for several years.

He then returned to California and, in 1894, settled at Los Alamitos. He erected a building and operated a store there; he was later the postmaster and the justice of the peace. In 1901, he moved to Seal Beach; he has resided here continuously for the past 32 years.

Ord is one of the oldest living Masons, having joined that order shortly after the close of the Civil war; he is now a member of Seal Beach lodge, No. 616.

Judge Ord plans to leave soon for the east where he will attend the national encampment of the Grand Army veterans.

PACKING PLANT AT BEACH WILL OPERATE SOON

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—The last piece of machinery for the Beach Packing company arrived yesterday and a crew of men is rushing installation of all equipment so that the cannery will be ready to start operation on Monday, July 31, according to a statement by Fred Roberts, general manager for the new plant.

Several huge, 200-pound cooking vats were being swung into position yesterday, the washing and grinding machines already being in place.

This being the beginning of the packing season, Roberts stated that about 50 people will be employed to start with, with the expectation of needing about 100 more as the season advances.

When running at capacity, 125 women and 25 men will be needed he said. They will start operations handling around 75 tons of tomatoes per day. Most of the early picking will go into hot sauces, the later and larger fruit being put into solid packs.

Heavy advance orders insure them a good season's run he stated, 30,000 cases of Spanish sauce and 10,000 gallons of fish sauce having been contracted for. H. F. Moss, Los Angeles cannery broker, and head of the firm, is in the field constantly soliciting orders for their products.

A three-year lease has been taken on the building and during the winter months after the growing season is over plans are being worked out for the handling of fish and olives, according to Mr. Roberts.

DAVIS FAMILY HAS PAINFUL ACCIDENTS

WINTERSBURG, July 28.—Two minor but painful accidents occurred within a few days' time to two members of the Phillip Davis family, while a minor operation for tonsils and adenoids was also an occurrence for a third member during the time.

Mr. Davis had a broken axle on his car, and it was while hammering with a hatchet to get it off that a piece of steel, either from the axle or the axle, flew off, striking him on the knee, just above the knee cap. The steel embedded in the knee.

The baby daughter of the home, Jean Davis, sustained the second injury in the family Sunday night, when she wiggled to get away from her mother, who was lifting her from the floor, throwing her elbow out of place. An X-ray showed the following morning that the joint had gone back to its proper position.

Tuesday, Keith Davis, Jean's oldest brother, had the operation performed and is improving steadily.

IMPORTANCE OF FOREIGN TRADE TOLD IN TALK

NEWPORT BEACH, July 28.—Stanley Olafson, member of the foreign commerce and shipping department of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, speaker at this week's meeting of the local Service club, said that, in spite of the apparent present tendency to almost disregard foreign trade in favor of domestic trade in the United States, the former is very important to the prosperity of the nation.

Olafson cited official government figures to show that the United States has exported much more to almost every foreign country both before and after the 1929 depression than it has imported from the same countries. In one instance he cited figures showing that exports amounted to $1,000,000,000, as against imports of but about $600,000,000.

Last year the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor alone exported approximately $160,000,000 worth of goods, he stated. This harbor, in some respects, said Olafson, has reached first place in the whole United States, more tons of American produce being cleared through this port than any other harbor in the nation.

The remarkable thing about this is that a quarter of a century ago the Los Angeles-Long Beach port was not considered a nationally important harbor at all, he said, its phenomenal growth being a result of the progress of Southern California in particular and the entire Pacific coast area in general, he said.

He said that there are more sailings out of Los Angeles to the Orient than out of San Francisco and Seattle combined, even though both of the latter are much older in Oriental trade.

The next regular weekly meeting, Wednesday, August 2, will be "ladies night" for the club. Lew Wallace and George P. Wilson will have charge of the program.

The next regular meeting will be in the form of a beach picnic. It was decided, and will be held at Huntington Beach. This will be the first speedboat race meet held in Newport Bay since a recent vote of the people permitted the council to issue permits for races without mufflers. The boat men claim that considerable greater speed can be attained if the boats can operate, as they will in this event, without mufflers.

Turnbull, commodore of the Outboard association, which is sponsoring the races, the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting appointed a committee to cooperate with the association in staging these races. The committee consists of W. S. Smith, Jr., Fred A. Storey, Harbor Master M. S. Robinson and Secretary G. C. Macleod of the chamber.

Brea Man Sought When Mother Dies

BREA, July 28.—Efforts are being made to contact Mr. and Mrs. Harry Sellers, who are vacationing in the high Sierras, to inform them of the death of Mrs. H. E. Sellers of Pennsylvania, mother of Brea man, who passed away this week. The only knowledge of where the Sellers are staying is that they intended to camp for a while for on the Tuolumne river.

JUDGE J. C. ORD TO CELEBRATE 91ST BIRTHDAY

SEAL BEACH, July 28.—Judge J. C. Ord, pioneer resident of Seal Beach, celebrates his 91st birthday today. Mr. Ord is still in very good health because of a very active life. He was born in Barton, Vermont in 1842, one of a family of fifteen children.

At the outbreak of the Civil war, he enlisted in Company E of the Ninth Vermont Volunteers and in December, 1864, was made sharpshooter of his company until the close of the war. He had the interesting experience of being present at the surrender of General Lee to General Grant. His pay, he stated, for his service in the war was 16 cents a day. At the end of the war he returned to his home in Vermont before going to Canada to visit.

At that time a party of insurgent Union soldiers with very patriotic motives decided to storm Canada and capture that country for the United States. Mr. Ord's brother was enlisted in the Canadian army, and since his brother was sick and unable to go, Ord went with the Canadians when the soldiers were called to quell this unauthorized attack. The insurgents were soon driven out and, after a short visit, Ord returned to his home.

In 1866 he decided to go to California, took a steamer from the coast and traveled to Nicaragua. He crossed the Isthmus to the Pacific ocean and caught a boat to San Francisco where, after a fruitless search for work, he bought some blankets and started out to see the state as a hobo. After about a year of this he returned to his home town where he served for several years as the postmaster.

On his second trip to California, he settled at Los Alamitos, opened a store and was postmaster and justice of the peace for several years. Later he moved his building to Seal Beach and opened the first store here. He was elected the first mayor of Seal Beach and has served as postmaster and justice of the peace. He retired from public life many years ago and now lives at his home at 203 10th street here.

At the end of the Civil war, Ord joined the Masonic order and has been very active in the work. He believes that he is one of the oldest living members of that order.

BUMPER CROP PREDICTED IN SUGAR BEETS

WINTERSBURG, July 28.—With approximately 1400 acres of sugar beets contracted this season by the American Sugar company of Oxnard in this vicinity, the local beet dump has opened with Charles Blokmere as weighmaster. The acreage is between 300 and 400 acres more than last season when approximately 1000 acres over this dump for the Oxnard mill. A bumper crop is in prospect.

Three ranchers, W. F. Slater, Callene Bros. and Harry Wilson are opening the season, being the only growers whose beets are plowed out.

The beet season, locally, opened six days later this season than last, July 19 being last year's date and July 25 for this year. November 1 is set, tentatively, as the closing date for the run, but if the present hot weather, which is due to ripen the beets faster, continues, the season will probably close even earlier.

No acreage estimates in tonnage or sugar content test reports have yet been received.

RECOVERY ACT DISCUSSED AT CLUB MEETING

BREA, July 28.—Dean W. T. Boyce of the Fullerton Junior college spoke on the National Industrial Recovery act before the Brea Lions club at their weekly luncheon on Thursday. Boyce, presented by John Daugherty, program chairman, declared that the act was more far-reaching and revolutionary in its action than anything the world has known for many years with the exception of Russian communism.

The speaker explained the act as an effort toward a square deal for everybody, giving the working man an opportunity to work and the privilege to purchase the produce of his labor. Inflation of national currency is certain to follow the introduction of the plan, he declared.

President R. E. Barnes having been forced to be late, Dr. Glenn G. Curtis, first vice president, presided at the meeting. A committee headed by W. A. Culp was named to assist the civic welfare committee of the Brea Woman's club, Mrs. R. M. Fleisher, chairman, in the project of setting out street trees under the R. E. C. plan.

Most of the property owners of the city who are without shade trees in the parking of their properties have agreed to enter into the project with the city and will maintain the trees once they are planted.

It is expected that this work, delayed now for some weeks, will begin next week.

Rotarians Hold Dinner In Anaheim On August 31st

Plans for a barbecue dinner to be served August 31 in the city park at Anaheim were formulated last night at a meeting of the Orange County Council of Rotary clubs. The conference was held at the home of Dr. D. C. Cowles in Fullerton.

It is expected that 500 Rotarians and their families will attend the dinner. An elaborate program of entertainment is being prepared which will include entertainers from the Toa Juana club and a troupe of Spanish singers and dancers that delighted Rotarians at two conventions. Edward DeGroot of Los Angeles, district governor, will be the guest of honor and principal speaker.

The council also adopted an emblem to be used on attendance cards of all Orange county Rotary clubs. This emblem will be a large orange with a map showing the location of the six clubs in Orange county.

CHEVROLET BOOSTS HOURLY PAY RATE

DETROIT, July 28.—(UP)—Chevrolet and Pontiac Motor companies today announced a 15 per cent increase in the hourly rate paid 40,000 workers in their 20 plants, effective August 1.

It was the first definite increase announced under the agreement reached by automobile manufacturers here yesterday to grant wage raises generally.

The increase, together with the five per cent pay increase announced May 1, boosts the wages of Chevrolet and Pontiac workers a total of 20 per cent.

President W. W. Knudsen of Chevrolet made the announcement. He also announced that all salaried employees receiving under $1,800 annually would receive an increase of 10 per cent.

CRUEL TREATMENT CHARGED BY WIFE

Persuaded by friends and relatives to try again, she dismissed a divorce complaint filed against her husband last April only to have him renew his cruel treatment of her, according to the complaint for divorce filed yesterday by Mrs. Frances Cosby against her husband, Ralph Cosby, clerk in a Santa Ana market.

The Cosbys were married March 7, 1921, and separated for the second time July 18, last. They have one child whose custody is being sought by the mother.

Her husband, according to the complaint filed by Mrs. Cosby, has a violent temper, particularly when he is under the influence of liquor. He frequently cursed her, the wife alleged, and on occasions when she left the dinner table to avoid arguments with him, her husband would throw her meal into the garbage pail.

She also alleged that Cosby objected to her visiting her relatives or having them visit her. At one time, she alleged, he threatened to throw her mother out of the house. She also accuses her husband of refusing to permit her to take their child to the cafe operated by her father in Santa Ana.

GENERAL PERFECTS LOW PRESURE TIRE

Compressed air, under high pressure, is the real cause behind tire blow-outs, according to E. A. Pagenkopp, of the Pagenkopp Super Service station, General tire distributors in this city.

"Why does a child's toy balloon—the kind he buys at circuses and blows up with his lungs through a tube—blow out?" asked Pagenkopp. "Because he blows too much air into it. The more air he blows into it, the greater is the strain on the rubber casing, which becomes more and more taut. Finally, the strain becomes too great, because of the high pressure within and, at some slight flaw, the casing gives way and the balloon bursts."

"The patented construction which permits the use of 40 per cent less air than standard pressure is found only in General blowout proof tires."

URGES PRESIDENT TO COMBAT KIDNAPINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, July 28.—(UP)—President Roosevelt was petitioned to speed organization of a federal police force to combat kidnapers and other criminals, by governors of 25 states who adjourned their annual session here and left at midnight for Yosemite National park.

The conference disregarded an "unwritten law" of 25 years' standing—a rule that the executives should not jointly ask anyone to do anything—when the resolution was approved.

Shortly before the governors' action, the California state senate passed a bill providing penalties of death or life imprisonment for "extortion kidnapers who maltreat their victims."

MEAT MARKET FIRST TO SIGN FOR NRA SEAL

Klamm and Nelson, operators of the Broadway Meat market, were the first Santa Ana business men to fall in line behind the Blue Eagle banner of the National Recovery Act.

Yesterday, according to H. E. Nelson, one of the partners, the firm signed the agreement at the postoffice agreeing to raise wages and reduce the working hours of their employees. The agreement will become effective Monday morning.

Nelson said that he was informed by Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith that the Blue Eagle NRA seal would be sent them for posting in the market on Tuesday.

In signing the agreement to cooperate with President Roosevelt in his National Recovery plan, Klamm and Nelson agreed to increase wages from 12 1/2 to 25 per cent and reduce the hours of their employees from 52 to 40 per week. Under their agreement scheduled employees of the meat market will have one day off each week and work seven hours daily, except Saturday.

Nelson said this morning that there are seven men now employed in the market and that this force will immediately be increased to nine. The increase in wages, he said, will give the employees an increased income for the 40 hour week over the amount they have been receiving for working 52 hours.

LOST $300 ON FREAK CALF

HADDAM, Kan. (UP)—F. L. Lamb was offered $800 for a freak calf which had three eyes, a hole for another, two noses and two upper lips. He turned down the offer and decided to exhibit the animal at the World's Fair. The day after the offer was made the calf died.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

When elderly Amos Peabody falls to his death from the second story balcony of Tom Averill's Long Island home, Linda, Tom's wife, believes it is murder. Peabody, her cousin, rushing to the balcony, finds Linda something thrown about her, almost, almost, almost faint.

She and Tom decide to pretend Cousin Amos' death was an accident, meanwhile devoting themselves to solving the crime. They have five guests, all of whom become suspects: Mr. Statlander, business associate of Tom's; Captain DeVos, handsome Belgian; Marvin Pratt, former suitor of Linda's; and Lian Shaughnessey, Irish writer. On one excuse and then another the guests are persuaded to finish out their week-end visit.

Linda finds the towel with which the attempt was made to strangle her (identified by a smear of sunburn ointment) in Statlander's bathroom. Tom, suspicious of Shaughnessey, searches his room. The Irishman discovers this and to set the night of his death Cousin Amos opened a French window that, swinging in the wind, just before dinner, Sunday evening Tom goes out to get the car out so he can take DeVos to his engagement. Linda is alone with Statlander. She is inattentive until she hears him say that when Cousin Amos was found dead DeVos appeared from the far end of the hall instead of his own room.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLVI

Linda heard the words as in a daze. "From our end of the hallway the nursery—" Statlander had said. It seemed as if he had shouted those words through the shattered quiet of the house.

She summed every ounce of courage she possessed and turned a smile of forced brilliance upon the somewhat astonished Mr. Statlander.

"Oh—yes—perhaps—I don't know," she answered, then, as her blood seemed to circulate more normally and the room ceased its hysterical circling around her, she went on more coherently. "I'm sure no one actually slept in the nursery," she said politely. (As if it mattered—as if anything mattered now but getting Tom back or getting to him and telling him!) "Anyone might have been sleeping and restless and wandered in there, as you say, in search of a breath of air. Oh, Rosie—dinner is served?" Mr. Statlander—would you—perhaps you'll wait here—I'll run over to the garage and tell Tom.

"Not at all!" He rose with stiff courtesy. "I will do that, Mrs. Averill. A pleasure, I assure you. Good evening, Mr. Pratt!" And as Linda wildly tried to think of some excuse which should not be too futile to hold him, Marvin inopportunely appeared and her opportunity vanished.

Fortunately Marvin was unobtrusive. And, perhaps even more fortunate, he was feeling extremely well pleased with himself because of the outcome of the afternoon's game. Her part was purely a listening one.

"That was gorgeous, Marvin! Oh, I wish I could have seen it! Why didn't you tell me you were?" The mechanical phrases came to urgent need. An drum from the corner of her eye she saw three figures leave the garage door and come across the lawn—Shaughnessey, Statlander, Tom.

She felt she was chattering a little.

BATTERED SCRAPBOOK REVEALS EARLY HISTORY OF SANTA ANA; BURNING OF CHINATOWN TOLD

Early residents of Santa Ana have seen great changes in the growth of the city but few have been more in touch with changing conditions than George Peters, former secretary of the fire department, who kept a scrapbook of fires, civic meetings and other events of wide interest, starting in 1899, and covering the full 50 years since the department was organized.

The battered old scrapbook, one of the prized possessions of Chief John Luxembourger, who celebrated his 26th year in the department yesterday, tells of the formation of the first fire brigade in 1899, the building of the fire house on Sycamore street between Third and Fourth, the purchase of occasional equipment and all the fires during this early period. A previous article in The Register traced events up to 1903, concluding with the burning of the old First National bank building in March of that year.

A month after the bank fire, the large residence of Attorney S. A. Bowes at C and Stafford streets was almost totally ruined by fire at a loss of about $4000. Mrs. Bowes did not know the fire had started until it was too late to put it out.

Firemen Tired Out

The next big blaze was to the home of Mrs. Eleanor Perry and family at Vance and F streets on July 14, 1903, which was completely destroyed. A large hay barn owned by R. J. Blee was burned six days later and fanned agitation for more modern fire fighting equipment for the city. It was pointed out that by the time the firemen hauled the cart by hand to the scene of the fire they were too tired to give adequate service in putting out the flames. A false alarm on July 25 did not calm the dispositions of the firemen and action was taken to have an electric alarm system installed and better equipment.

The new alarm system of 19 boxes was installed in November of the same year. Each box when opened gave the firemen the location of the fire, rang the fire alarm, and notified the city engineer to shut off water through the city. A telephone in the box also enabled the person to tell the firemen details of the fire. A new chemical and hose wagon was installed at the fire house, horses were bought to draw the carts and the finishing touches were put on the new building.

The Santa Ana Morning Dispatch tells of an unusual occurrence on November 17, 1904, when the fire department was getting ready for a demonstration run with the new horses for the benefit of the municipal league. Conductor Fuller of the Santa Fe local, living at 615 East Fourth street, gave the department a real surprise when his dove cote caught fire.

Blacksmith Shop Saved

Prompt work by the fire department saved the blacksmith shop of Kuffell and Fine at the corner of Fifth and West streets which caught fire on December 22, 1904. The blaze was discovered by John Mitchell, who was walking past the building, and an alarm was given quickly enough to save a team owned by Sheriff Theodore Lacy, a buggy and valuable harness.

Capt. and Mrs. J. S. North lost a barn, outbuildings and a quantity of money when fire broke out at their home east of the railroad on East Fourth street on December 23, 1905. The first clippings from the Santa Ana Daily Register, which was established in 1905, was on this fire. The second Register contribution in the book concerned a false alarm.

Chinatown Burned

One of the most sensational chapters in Santa Ana's history was the burning of Chinatown after a leper was discovered living in one of the shacks near Third and Bush streets. Although a secret resolution had been passed by the city council to burn the houses, hundreds of people gathered on May 25, 1906, anticipating the fire. A light rain failed to drive away the thousands and the buildings were ignited about 5 p. m.

Rumors were circulated that the Chinese minister in Washington was going to protest the action and a Chinese official came down from Los Angeles to investigate the matter. He took no action, however, and endorsed the action of the city council after he found out that seven Chinese had been given food and quarters after the fire, and that there was no intent to drive them from the city.

The blaze was kept under control by the fire department and streams of water were played on the back of the city hall to keep it from burning. Outside of one cracked window from the heat,

SECRETARY

George Peters, for many years secretary of the Santa Ana Fire Department, started keeping a scrapbook in 1899 to record fires and other historical events.

there was no damage to the city building.

Boys, Firecrackers

Small boys and firecrackers were responsible for the post-Fourth of July fire on July 7, 1906, at the home of Deputy Sheriff George Wilson at 623 Parton street, which destroyed a large barn and burned Mrs. Wilson and a valuable horse.

Editorially treated in the newspapers as the removal of two eyes—a fire threatened business buildings on East Fourth street on July 19, 1906. The blaze started at Imman's Upholstery shop at 218 East Fourth street and quickly spread to the office of McKean and Dowell, real estate brokers; G. R. Lyall's feed store and Nat King's novelty store. Two buildings were finally destroyed, both owned by Henry Neill, at a loss of over $1000.

Free transportation for firemen on the Pacific Electric line was argued in 1906 with the final agreement allowing firemen on duty to ride free, and also the members of the city council.

Mrs. C. E. Rubottom and family were made completely destitute on April 11, 1907, when a fire destroyed their house on Sullivan street between Fourth and Fifth. One of her sons was badly burned when he attempted to save the crippled mother.

Famous Horse Burned

Tom Sears, famous racing horse owned by J. S. Brooks, was burned to death in a fire in the Brooks stable at 319 East Pine street on September 3, 1907. Defective wiring caused the blaze in the early morning and the horse perished in the flames. Two tons of hay, a survey, bicycle, harness and tools were also destroyed.

Three alarms in three hours on the morning of October 5 kept the fire department busy. The first was to the dwelling of Mrs. Jesse Vance north of the fire house, the second in the Spurgeon building at Fourth and Sycamore and the third to a barnyard at the corner of Sycamore and Washington streets. No serious damage resulted at any of the fires.

(Editor's Note—The third article in the series will appear in an early issue.)

STATE DIVISION ASKED TO CORRECT WASTE WATER EVIL

At a meeting of the water committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau, held yesterday, Chairman O. E. Steward was requested to communicate with the California division of Oil and Gas, seeking relief from oil well waste water that is contaminating water wells in the county.

Contamination of water supplies has been one of the reasons advanced by the Federal Land bank for refusal to loan money on Orange county land. The Federal Land bank placed the blame for contamination of the supply on ocean water.

Following a two year investigation conducted by Murray N. Thompson, county flood control engineer, it was revealed that ocean water is not seeping into the fresh water wells. His investigation showed that the contamination comes from disposal of waste water from the wells. Many of the oil companies have voluntarily co-operated in correcting this contamination. The request for official relief was to bring into line the companies who have refused.

It has been the contention of officials of the Division of Oil and Gas that under the law, the division has no legal right to discipline an oil company unless the waste water actually contaminates a well.

In making the request for co-operation the farm bureau committee takes the stand that it is the intention of the law for the division to take steps in cases where waste water from the wells would contaminate water supplies if corrective measures are not taken before the actual contamination.

Candidate Tells Appreciation For Work of Friends

Edith Gallup, who placed third in the Fiesta del Oro queen contest, today took occasion to thank friends for the co-operation they gave her in amassing more than 2,000 votes and for untiring work done by a number of close friends, who worked until the last minute.

"It was a long, hard fight, and we did our best," Miss Gallup said. "The contest was a lot of fun, and I enjoyed it immensely."

Miss Lauderbach Thanks Friends

Marjorie Lauderbach, winner of fourth place in the Fiesta del Oro queen contest, in a statement today thanked her many friends for their co-operation during the contest and expressed regret that she would be unable to attend all fiesta activities.

Miss Lauderbach will be unable to attend all activities because of the death of her grandmother, Mrs. L. B. Lauderbach.

She said that it would be her desire to personally thank each of her friends for their support during the campaign but that not being possible, she asked The Register to thank them through the columns of the newspaper.

SWIMMING CLASSES AT "Y" CONTINUED

Swimming instruction will be continued next week at the Y. M. C. A. was announced today by Secretary R. C. Smedley. The demand for this work has been so insistent that arrangements have been made to carry it on for at least another week or two.

The instruction is given by D. H. Tibbals, boys' work secretary, who has instructed more than 100 persons during the past five weeks, and has succeeded in teaching most of them to swim satisfactorily.

Beginning on Monday, there will be a lesson for girls each morning at 9:30 o'clock and for women at 10:30 o'clock. Both beginners and more advanced swimmers will be admitted to these classes. Beginners will be given the elementary principles of swimming, while advanced swimmers will be aided in diving and in the improvement of their stroke and breathing.

A class for small boys will be conducted each afternoon, starting at 1:30 o'clock, preceding the general swim which is arranged for all the boy members from 2 to 4 o'clock.

It is requested that persons desiring to enroll in any of these classes make advance reservations. A telephone call to the Y. M. C. A. will be sufficient to hold a place, up to the limit of the number that can be accommodated.

Free Swim For Y. Boys Tonight

Members of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department were reminded today by Secretary D. H. Tibbals that this evening brings the regular weekly "free swim" for all the members. They are to meet tonight at 7:20 o'clock for a short period of music, after which they will enjoy a short talk by C. D. Hicks and then will have an hour in the swimming pool.

At 8 o'clock, representatives of the various Hi-Y clubs of the city are to meet for conference on plans for their fall program. Each club is asked to have at least one representative at the Y. M. C. A. for this meeting.

Three Months' Tour Concluded by Couple

Their marriage an event of early spring, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kotlar returned home recently from a three months' wedding trip throughout the east, and are temporarily established at 2417 Valencia street. Mrs. Kotlar will be remembered as Miss Ruth Campbell.

The bride and bridegroom left here shortly after their marriage on April 30, going by way of the Grand Canyon and Colorado to Columbus, Neb., where they were guests in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kotlar. A pleasant feature of their stay there was a three-day celebration of their marriage and of the birthday anniversaries of Mr. and Mrs. John Kotlar.

The celebration at the Kotlar home near Columbus was carried out in a manner traditional in the family. The wedding service itself was re-enacted according to an old, ritualistic ceremony. A master of ceremonies presided, leading a band of musicians as they assembled at various windows of the home. They then marched to the dance floor, where the dance ceremony was observed. This involved presentation of the wedding symbol to the best man, of the maid of honor, and ten bridesmaids to their partners, of the bride to the bridegroom, and of the entire party to the parents and honored guests.

After the ceremony, the group joined in dancing until 5:30 o'clock, when a buffet supper was served. Dancing and singing continued until the serving of an 11 o'clock supper. One hundred and twenty-five guests were present.

Points visited by Mr. and Mrs. Kotlar on the trip to Nebraska were Winslow, Ariz., the Grand Canyon, Canon City, Colorado and Oakley, Kans., the last two being former homes of Mrs. Kotlar. The couple visited in Rexford, Kans., Kearney, Neb., and then Columbus.

On the return to California, they visited Pipestone, Minn., Flandreau, S. D., the Black Hills, Alliance, Neb., Yellowstone National park, Montana, Washington and Oregon.

Santa Anas Are Home From Eastern Trip

Mrs. W. D. Baker and her daughter, Miss Helen Wieseman, have returned to their Santa Ana home after an enjoyable visit in the east. Mrs. Baker had been absent since March, when she accompanied a close friend, Mrs. William Selb, to Buffalo, N. Y., after the death of Mrs. Selb's husband in Long Beach.

She has spent the intervening months in Buffalo visiting relatives and close friends, and was joined there by Miss Helen Wieseman after the close of the school year at Occidental college, where the latter was a student. Trips to Philadelphia, Atlantic City, Rochester, Niagara Falls and into Canada were highlights of the summer. Miss Wieseman especially enjoying a visit in the home of Miss Doris Keeler, former resident of Santa Ana, now in Ipperswell, Ontario, Canada.

The return trip of the mother and daughter to Santa Ana was nicely broken by visits to the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago and with Mrs. Baker's brother in Lincoln, Neb.

DON'T ENVY YOUTH.. HAVE IT!

EAT . . . and grow young! That's what Nature intended when she gave us whole wheat. For in this richest of cereal grains are stored the things that youth is made of. Proteins, carbohydrates, minerals and vitamins, so food authorities call them. You can call them something simpler — SHREDDED WHEAT.

This VITALLY DIFFERENT food brings you all the vital elements of whole wheat . . . all of whole wheat's correctly measured bran. Nothing added, nothing taken away. Just 100% whole wheat . . . ready cooked, ready to eat . . . in easily digested, crisp brown biscuits.

And mighty good to eat, too, with milk or cream, with fresh or preserved fruit. Try it for at least ten days . . . and learn to forget your years!

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Green Salad:
2 stalks canned asparagus
1 hard cooked egg, sliced
Lettuce hearts
2 tbsps. buttermilk mayonnaise
1 slice dry toast
Clear tea, no sugar.

Of all the people who have difficulties in dieting the housewife has the hardest part: working around the kitchen, cooking a meal, tasting this to see if it has enough salt, and that, to see if it has sufficient sugar, at the end of the day runs the calory total up a lot more than one has any idea of. How can this problem be met, successfully?

First, by using will power and remembering NOT TO TASTE, or if you must taste, not to swallow the sample. That's not so easy, is it? So now what? Just put a tiny strip of adhesive tape across the mouth and within a week the "taste not" habit will be well on its way towards being a fact, and that stubborn weight will begin to come down. The adhesive tape can be quickly removed by sponging the skin with a little spot remover or benzine. Apply cold cream after using the benzine.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Boiled Salad Dressing
4 egg yolks beaten, with
1 tsp. dry mustard
1-2 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. sugar
4 tbsps. vinegar
6 cups thin cream
4 egg whites beaten to a thick froth.

Put the thin cream to heat in a double boiler: whip egg yolks with all seasonings, gradually adding the vinegar.

When the cream boils, slowly stir in the yolk part and keep stirring until the mixture thickens. Don't worry if it tries to curdle, as soon as the dressing cools a vigorous whipping will straighten it out. When the dressing is cooked replace the hot water with cold and let the dressing get quite cold before anything further is done with it.

Whip the egg whites to a stiff froth, and the cold yolk part and whip until the dressing is a light foamy mass. You can add a little cream if it seems thicker than you like, and for moist tastes, quite a little paprika.

This old dressing, taken from a long-hand recipe in a book that was compiled in 1877, says that the dressing will be sure to curdle if the egg yolk part is not thoroughly cold before it is added to the whipped whites.

There are a little less than 500 calories in this salad dressing, enough to dress a good sized potato salad.

Properly made, a potato salad should be made of potatoes cooked in their jackets, peeled and diced while hot marinated in a tangy French dressing, celery and mustard seed, then cooled and dressed with the cooked dressing. A garnish of dill pickle and hard boiled eggs go with it.

Saturday: Spiced Pressed Beef for serving cold with potato or green salads. ANN MEREDITH.

All that housewives need do to enter the contest is to send in a recipe for a favorite salad or other dish which calls for home made mayonnaise as an ingredient. Competition will close in two weeks, at which time all the entries will be read and judged. Valuable prizes are being offered to the winners, with the first award consisting of 12 pints of Wesson oil, one mayonnaise maker and one three-pound can Snowdrift.

PARK AREAS AT BEACH ARE CLEAN

LAGUNA BEACH, July 27.—The park areas of Laguna never have been so free of weeds and unsightly patches of dry grasses at this time of the year, as they are today, due to the work that is being done, under the guidance of Floyd W. Case, superintendent of streets, working through Councilman C. R. Clapp, park commissioner. Reconstruction Finance Corporation funds have made this possible and the foundation has been laid for keeping these areas presentable in the future. But best of all, according to some ideas, there have been constructed many pathways to the beach from the high bluffs and some of them are truly beautiful.

Frank W. Cuprien, noted Laguna Beach marine painter, whose love of the sea and its changing moods have stirred his soul to paint glorious canvases, declared today that these paths alone, built upon city-owned park land, have been a blessing in disguise to the people not only of Laguna Beach but to the thousands of visitors who come to enjoy the beauty of the coast line and its series of fine beaches.

ALL DAY MEETING PLANNED AT CHURCH

Beginning at 2:30 in the afternoon, the missionaries will speak, and the services will include old-fashioned preaching and singing. Missionaries from India and the American Indians will be speakers. The Rev. Clouse of Garden Grove, who spent 40 years among the Indians, will speak, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Woodworth and Mrs. L. P. Gray, who spent years in India, Japanese, Mexican and Russian missions of Southern California, will also be speakers in the afternoon.

H. G. Shirley will be in charge of the music and has planned a program of old-fashioned singing.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

VALUE OF GOOD BREAD IS CITED

"Facts brought out by scientific tests of the food value of good bread bring to every one of us full realization of its importance in our daily diets," Claude M. McDowell, manager of the Weber

Baking company, said today. "Not only is it truly the staff of life from the nutritional standpoint, but is also proven to be the most economical source of body energy."

"According to famous dietitians, quality bread contributes one-fourth of the body energy in the normal, balanced diet of the average individual. The importance of bread in our daily diet makes it doubly important that its quality be the highest. Furthermore, it is very significant that a loaf of bread gives full food value for every cent invested in it. "The exceptional digestibility of highest quality bread makes it the center of every meal and acts as an important 'carrier' of all other foods. The nutritive goodness of Weber's bread supplies not only energy for grownups, but also provides growing youngsters with necessary elements for strong bones, sound teeth and sturdy bodies. Grownups need it for the extra energy it supplies to carry on nature's work of rebuilding that which is constantly being torn down through mental and physical exertion."

Party Observes Sixth Birthday

GARDEN GROVE, July 28.—The sixth birthday of Muriel Dungan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dungan and the only grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dungan, was made a memorable event Wednesday afternoon when her grandparents and her aunt, Miss Juanita Dungan, invited a group of her little playmates to a party at her home on East Ocean avenue.

The affair was arranged as a peanut party, the invitations issued bearing that form, and the house was gayly decorated as a peanut land. All games, for which many prizes were awarded, featured peanuts.

Balloons sailed over the refreshment table, which was appointed in pink, nut cups of that color holding many kinds of the favored nuts. Two large pink and white birthday cakes, each bearing six candles, were served with ices and peanut wafer sandwiches. Assorted favors marked each place. Many lovely gifts were presented to the honoree.

Present besides the honored guest, her mother and the hosts, were Betty Lou Noble, Marjorie Clark, Gloria Bradford, Ralph Stuck, Lloyd Fowler, Roy Coates, Johnny and Ronald Hein.

THE TINYMIES

STORY BY MAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Said Scouty, "Gee, the joke's on us. I thought the fisherman would guess about the great big boot that we hooked on his fishing line."

"Instead, he thinks a prize he's won, and now he wants the other one. I really never thought that he would take our trick so fine."

"And, say, he's going to stay right there and fish some more. It isn't fair," said Duncy. "Guess I'll tell him there are no more boots below."

"He'll think we're kind, if we explain that fishing, now, will be in vain. No doubt he will believe us and then get right up and go."

So Scouty loudly shouted, "Hey, you may as well be on your way."

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Many a girl depends on dots to give her dash.

You will not catch a single thing around this fishing spot. "We've told the fish down in the sea to be as careful as can be. They know you're trying to hook them, and they'll mind us, like as not."

The fisherman was quite surprised when he looked down and realized that two lads, in the water, had been giving him advice. "Where did you come from?" he cried out. "Please tell me what it's all about." "Oh, call us water nymphs," said Duncy. "That name sounds real nice."

"We're visiting down in the sea. It's interesting as can be. And now we're going to leave you." Then the lads dove out of sight. Then shortly reached the others and wee Doty said, "It would be grand if we could find a place to snooze and rest ourselves to-night."

Soon Coppy round some bed-rock where he stopped and said, "Flopp right down there. I'll fix some seaweed pillows. Everything will be all right."

"There's lots of room for Goldy, too. I'll stay here and watch over you." Another Tiny shouted, "Look! Starfish are shining bright!"

COMPLICATIONS

There are countless complications in connection with the modern inventions, Nation wide hook-ups on the radio call for a great deal of advance preparation and a time schedule in the broadcasting stations throughout the nation which doesn't vary by one second. When left adrift broadcasters have a way of coming down to earth with a thud. What they manage to say to fill space isn't much.

But here is a new complication which has us guessing. One of the transcontinental air lines recently introduced a berth into its service. It is looking forward to real service along this line with planes with built-in berths, instead of berths converted from the seats. Instead of a passenger undressing in the plane, however, he will disrobe at the airport dressing station and "scamper" aboard in his pajamas, according to advanced information from the New Yorker which doesn't say what arrangements have been made to carry the clothes on to the point where they may be needed when "Phoebus' gins arise." And if the clothes that are taken off are repacked into the suitcases which are carried in the wing about those articles of wearing apparel which just can't be packed into the traveling bag.

A fact which it is conceivable one might not discover until the embarrassing moment when one was all ready to embark. One just can't be poised as one wants to be when meeting fellow travelers for the first time while one is carrying certain things. But worse than any other conceivable embarrassment would be that of the fearful traveler who never disrobes at night. His timidity and lack of travel poise can be concealed behind the curtains of his berth but this business of undressing exposes him to everybody if he doesn't play the game as it should be played. Are there enough of these people so that this plan will limit travel.

Then there is the business of forced landing somewhere. It might happen once in a lifetime that one would be marooned on a peak in the high Sierras with the wings containing the clothes all crumpled up some where down in the valley. In that case, however, probably it would be really more convenient to be all ready for the doctors, if any, to go to work. Well, anyhow the plan ought to help negligee sales.

Scientists at U. S. Department of Agriculture announce progress in war on garden pests. But so far they seem to have been unable to do anything about the neighbor who is always borrowing our rake.

"HELP PREVENT FIRES"

With the advent of summer weather, it is most fitting and proper to call attention, once again, to the need of observing religiously, the rules in regard to the protection of the forests from fire.

It is equally as important to be watchful and careful in areas that are not subject to the fire laws during this weather.

The tremendous irreparable damage that is done to our forests each year during the dry periods, when the temperature mounts, should be a constant reminder to those who travel where any damage might be done.

Carelessness and violation of the laws should be summarily dealt with, no matter who the offender may be.

One fact that is not widely known is that it is unlawful to smoke in a closed car, when it is passing through an area in which smoking is prohibited.

We should each one of us make a vow to save the tremendous waste caused by forest fires, and the danger to the lives of others who bring them under control, and then conscientiously carry out this pledge. It might be wise for us to pass the word along, especially to those who visit us from other districts, who otherwise might not realize the danger they might cause.

New York has called a special session of the Legislature to grant cities the right to levy new forms of taxes. Can it be possible that any have been overlooked?

STRANGE COMPANY ARRESTED IN CHICAGO

The indictment of Dr. Benjamin Squires, University of Chicago economist among the twenty-four racketeers and politicians arrested yesterday in a cleanup, following ten weeks of undercover investigation of racketeering in Chicago, gives rise to speculation. What is a professor of economics doing in such company? He was formerly head of the "Master Cleaners" and Dyers' Institute.

It recalls the spurious argument too frequently used by good but dumb people, that if the authorized officials do not protect them from the forces that prey upon them, they have a right to band together to protect themselves by violence, if necessary. Why they think they, or people hired by them, could do a more thorough piece of work than the trained officials backed by them, instead of the racketeers, is a question for them to answer. It will be a revelation to discover why a professor of economics, who should know the principles that must govern an ordered society, is in such company.

It is added proof, however, that people cannot safely put their trust in individuals because of the positions they hold or the learning they are reputed to possess. One cannot afford to trust easily in these days.

THE JURY DECIDES

The final chapter was written in the case against Raymond L. Haight, Ed Otto and Thatcher Kemp in the courts of Los Angeles county, when the latter two were adjudged not guilty of bribery. It took the jury 45 minutes and one ballot to reach this verdict.

It will be remembered that Mr. Haight was cleared of this charge some two weeks ago, because of lack of evidence against him and Otto and Kemp were held for prosecution, the jury coming to the above conclusion.

At the time of the freeing of Mr. Haight, we commented on the case, and declared that it looked as though it were an attempt to discredit men who were trying to expose crookedness in public office. The dispatch with which the jury handled the decision would indicate that this surmise was probably correct. Mr. Haight's record as Corporation Commissioner was such that he would earn the enmity of crooked stock promoters, and it proves the lengths to which these men will go to punish those who thwart their desires.

The outcome of this case will go far toward insuring better government and will give courage to those persons who are working toward that end.

Anti-repeal leader says prohibition speakers should popularize their remarks by making more wise-cracks. Does this mean we are to have some dry humor?

A MOTHER'S DILEMMA

The marriage of Lady Phyllis Nancy Astor, daughter of Viscount and Viscountess Astor, yesterday recalls an incident at Clivedon, the beautiful home of the Astors on the Thames, when Lady Astor told a small group of Americans about her difficulties in getting her children, particularly this daughter, ready for a contemplated visit in the states.

The daughter, it seemed, was quite indifferent to clothes and of no help to her mother, who felt that she had to dress her quite respectably for the critical eyes of the folks across the sea. "For you know over there," she said, "they will look at her and seeing her disheveled will say: 'Uh huh, poor child, her mother is too busy outside the home to take care of her own children.'" Lady Nancy felt that her reputation was at stake and had to make her daughter neat in spite of herself.

One Touch Of Barter
Christian Science Monitor

Peasants in the Austrian Tyrol are gayly humming a revised version of the old nursery rhyme: Six little pigs came from Poland

And one Polish tourist is here, while the Sportsgehefte in old Innsbruck report that sales of Alpenstock are going strong. Glee marks the round, rubicund visage of the peasant farmers as again they find a market for butter and milk and eggs at hotels long more than half deserted; in many a mountain hut on steep Austrian passes the primitive but comfortable haybeds are being made afresh for Polish climbers, who long have vainly wished to watch the golden glow of sunrise gild the Tyrolean Alps. And it is barter that has turned the trick.

Grave gentlemen from Vienna and Warsaw, sitting round a table at a conference in London, decided that the consumption of Schweinefleisch in Austria badly needed boosting, and that arbitrary passport rules in Warsaw prevented many Poles scaling Austrian peaks or enjoying the Musikfest at Salzburg. Ordinarily it is harder for a Polish citizen to get a passport to leave his country than for an American postmaster to retain his job under a new Administration. The purpose, of course, is to make Poles spend their vacation money at home.

The restriction is a close-up of the famous world-picture entitled: Nationalism Gone Wild. But a man from Warsaw got an inspiration. Said he to the Austrian delegates: "Pigs is pigs and you need 'em. We have 'em. Every time you buy six pigs from us we'll let out one Pole with a pocket full of zlotys to spend."

"Bully," cried an Austrian. "We'll purchase pigs in carload lots and invite 15,000 Poles to equip themselves with Alpenstocks and revel in the finest panorama Europe anywhere affords."

Thus did one touch of barter make two nations economically kin.

Lands That Never Were

Cleveland Plain Dealer
Sir Anthony Hope Hawkins was a benefactor of mankind. In the late-Victorian nineties, when the minds of men were turning from Meredith prettiness to . . . problem novels . . . Anthony Hope (as we then knew him) discovered a new realm. We went with him to Ruritania, the most realistic of all dreamlands and thrilled with the noble adventures he set before us . . .

What a glorious relief was "The Prisoner of Zenda," after the drowsy verbosity of "Robert Elsmere." England and America awoke to the fact that fiction did not have to be wearisome. With what zest everyone took to wandering with Rudolph Rassendyl in impossible lands! Moreover, it was not necessary to place the Hope novel on the highest shelves of the bookcases so the children could not reach them.

Zip-zip stories of pure romance are still going strong. Perhaps they are now a little rougher than the Zenda stories and not quite so preposterous or quite so delicately devised. But they are still wholesome, and they are still the proper pabulum for story readers. . . .

So Anthony Hope was a benefactor. Not a great writer, but a good one. The difference is not very significant.

Makes Opera Pay
San Francisco Chronicle

In New York where there was recent fear lest it be impossible to finance this year's Metropolitan Opera season, an independent producer is making a summer experiment with opera. The old Hippodrome, seating 6000, has been taken over. De Luxe seats cost 99 cents. Each night from one to three thousand are turned away.

The manager has no "angel," no subsidy, no high salaries and no deficit. He says the public really wants opera and he attends to the theatrical side and ignores the social angle function. He believes singers sing better if they are not worried so much about what to do with all their money. The experiment is worth watching as an indication of what the public does want in opera.

The Mohammedans Have Nothing On Us

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

NOT UP TO THE MODEL

If any other man than Shakespeare
Had written his tragical stuff,
We should probably say
When we witnessed a play
That the author was somewhat too rough.
"Why deal with insanity, murder,
And rapine and violent strife?"
We doubtless should cry,
"Why couldn't he try
To picture the soft spots in life?"

But the bard had a trick of depicting
The heart-stirring scenes he portrayed
With a masterful skill
That invested with thrill
Every drama his company played.
All his work still compels our attention,
As it did in the ages of yore,
Though the scenes from his pen
Every now and again
Are reeking with battle and gore.

But whenever the latter-day playwrights
Attempt to reflect our own time
They all seem to lack
The old Avon boy's knack
Of making us shudder at crime.
The lads seem unable to manage
To get the old heart-racking swing;
Though they work just as hard
At their job as the Bard
Their stuff isn't quite the real thing.

NOT SO TOUGH

Probably those tree-planting lads are spurred to their task by the thought that they won't be there when the time comes to chop them down.

What investments are safe today? We know one. But who the hek wants that many three-cent stamps?
A married man soon discovers that every question has two sides.
Her side and her mother's.

Hint to smart alecks: The person who tries to be the life of the party is usually the death of it.
Perhaps we shouldn't blame those price-lifters for wanting to do a little profiteering now. After so much loss-lesteering.

Historians will probably speak of Hitler as "the man who held the destiny of a nation in the hollow of his head."
Men have less courage than women. You can't imagine a man with thirty cents in his pocket going into a store to try on seven suits of clothes.
Optimist: The young father who picks up the baby and says, "Gosh, he certainly does perspire freely."

AMERICANISM: Business men yelling, "Help me, Uncle Sam!" and then, a second after he's done it, "Take your hands off me, you big bum!"

A fable that Aesop missed: "In case of a tie between two or more contestants the full amount of the first prize will go to each."

The real truth, in most of those cases, would read thus: "It was a love match. He loved her money and she loved his title."
If he has to hire a thousand-dollar-a-day lawyer to prove his innocence it's a pretty good sign he's guilty.

ANOTHER GOOD WAY TO REDUCE IS TO OBSERVE ANOTHER WOMAN IN THE ACT OF CAPTIVATING YOUR MEAL TICKET.

And, thanks to Mr. Roosevelt, we no longer are known in certain countries as "Uncle Sap."
Hoarding is futile, Mr. Wise-Guy. The longer you save it the less it'll buy.

Pick-up reported by a friend: "My husband promised to come home just as soon as the race was over, but he didn't tell me it was a six-day bicycle race."

Another sure sign of returning prosperity: That long-lost word "profiteer" is appearing again in headlines.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WALLING AMERICA IN

Rumor reaches me that the Presidents advisers — some of them — are becoming convinced that we may be compelled to resort to policies that will reduce our foreign trade to rock-bottom and to set ourselves manfully at the task of making America virtually self-sufficient as an economic unit in the modern world.

This, as I suggested yesterday, is very much the policy Russia has adopted under Stalin. I want to point out two things about such a policy for the United States.

In the first place, such a policy will hit us much harder than it has hit Russia.

Russia was not the industrialized nation that we are when she set out on her experiment in self-sufficiency.

We have most of our major industries built upon the expectation for liberal foreign outlets for their output.

We could, as I have before indicated, quite readily get along without the 10 per cent of our national production which in normal years we sold abroad. In this 10 per cent were evenly distributed throughout our agricultural and industrial enterprises. But it is not. Important enterprises throughout the United States are organized and capitalized on the assumption of anywhere from 10 to 50 per cent outlet in foreign markets.

In the second place, if we are to go, even for a transition period of years, to a basis of strict economic nationalism, we shall be obliged to go in for a kind of political control of industry more strict and sweeping than we have yet dreamed, for without such control the nation-wide reorganization of our industry that economic self-sufficiency will necessitate cannot be even measurably achieved.

And, then, finally, this will be the signal for a world-wide tariff war more intense than we have yet known.

Leadership just now needs all the sympathetic support we can give it, for the problem it faces is baffling. It will be so easy, by doing what seems to be the strong and sane thing for the nation, to plunge ourselves into an economic backwash from all the tides of the modern world.

"WELL DONE"

Whenever I hear a teacher or parent prodding a failing child into making an effort to do better, I remember our dramatic teacher, Miss Press. She was, and probably still is, a great teacher of dramatic expression.

One day she was leading a group of first graders to express the action and feeling of a fairy tale. One child was the princess, one the prince, the wicked godmother, another the wicked fairy. There were groups of goblins and groups of soldiers, musicians, all sorts of creatures, and they had a glorious time being themselves.

In the background stood a little lad, stodgy, stiff, unmoving. I wondered what was going to happen about this child who seemingly took no share in all the fun and frolic. At the close of the play, when the children breathless and shining with happiness scattered to their seats, Miss Press turned to the little boy and said, "You were wonderful, Dan, wonderful. You are the best student for the fairy to hide behind that ever could be. You did well, my boy."

Dan, aged six, studied her face with searching eyes. Did she mean it? Was she fooling him? Making fun of him maybe? No, the eyes shone on him, the hand that touched his shoulder was too kind. She meant it. She actually meant that he was a fine stone.

Out came his chest. Proudly he went to his place and the children clapped for him as enthusiastically as for all the others.

After that Dan was a stone, a tree, and sturdy dependable object that was needed. Before long some of the stiffness left his body. Intelligence, eager and alert, lighted his movements. Dan was on his way. Try with might and main to find something you can honestly praise. "How well you did," stimulates the mind and body of a child. "How poorly you did" deadens him.

There is no fear that he will stop trying because you told him he did well. Praise is sweet. He will do everything in his power to make you praise him again. The danger lies in your selecting the wrong thing or in speaking at the wrong time. One must be discreet in the use of praise. It is a powerful stimulant and used at the wrong time in the wrong way makes a bad matter worse. "There, there, you are a very good little boy. He's a good boy, doctor. You mustn't hit the doctor. That's a good boy. Well, doctor, I'll take him home and bring him some other day. Come dear, mother will give you a piece of chocolate for being a good child. I know you meant to be good and let the doctor look at your throat. Never mind. Mother's good child."

You wouldn't do that, would you? Any physician, dentist, nurse, will tell you it has been done. That isn't the right use of praise and reward. You might praise his lousy lungs, but he isn't accountable for them. You might praise his strength of will, but he misused it. For such an occasion silence, re-education is best. Reserve praise for something worthy even though it is only maintaining one's place as a stone or a tree in the group. Cooperation is the measure. Praise that always and good will come of it.
